BILL KILLED BY ONE VOTE

Senator Titus Asks Reconsideration And Measure Again
Is On Calendar

Madison—The senate voted, 16 to 15, to kill the Dahl general income tax bill, and when Senator W. A. Titus, Fond du Lac, changed his vote, reconsidered its action, reviving the bill. On motion of Senator Henry Huber the resuscitated tax proposal carried over until next Wednesday.

La Follette Progressive Republicans used every means to save the last tax bill of the session from defeat. They saw the proposal almost die by the close margin of one vote only to be brought fully back to life by the changed stand of Senator Titus, who announced that if the measure could be satisfactorily amended he would support it on another occasion.

A vote on a motion made by Senator Henry Roethe to nonconcur in the Dahl Revenue measure, showed the following lineup:

For killing the bill, Benfer, Burke, Clark, Czerwinski, Gellman, Kuckuk, Lange, Mahon, Moran, Morris, Ridgway, Roethe, Skogmo, Smith, Titus, White—16.

Against killing the bill, Barber, Billgrien, Casperson, Casperson, Garey, Hirsch, Huber, Johnson, Kemp, Polakowski, Quick, Schumann, Severson, Staudenmayer, Teasdale—15.

Paired Heck for the Vill Werden against the bill.

HINT AT BRIBE

Debate on the proposed revision of the Wisconsin income tax law was featured by charges of Senator Eldo T. Ridgway, Elkhorst, that an attempt had been made to "buy" his vote by offers of jobs.

The senator declared that he could not vote for the Dahl bill without voting put in the position of having, so he said, "sold out his vote." He explained that he had voted for the two previous revenue measures, including the finance committee compromise bill.

The Dahl bill, first killed and then revived, would produce $14,000,000 from incomes by establishing an increased tax on individual earnings ranging from 1 per cent on the first $1,000 of taxable income to 10 per cent on incomes over $15,000. It would set up a corporation rate ranging from 2 to 7 per cent with a tax on one half of stock dividends.

Property owners of $10 would be allowed the distribution of returns would be 60 per cent to the state and 40 per cent to municipal units.

CALLS IT LAST CHANCE

Sensors Henry Hirsch, Howard Teasdale, A. E. Gary, and Quick spoke for the bill, all stressing the fact that it represented the last chance of the legislature to carry out the platform pledges of La Follette Progressives to enact a bill revising the Wisconsin income tax system. They asserted that the measure would relieve general property of some of its tax burden, shifting added tax expenses to incomes.

Sensors Ben Mahon, Milwaukee, Henry Roethe, Fennimore, and Titus and Ridgway opposed the bill on the floor. Senator Roethe urged an interim committee to study the whole tax question.

The statement made by Senator Ridgway in which he charged that his vote had been sought by certain authorities follows in full: "I am rising to the floor for two reasons, one is as a personal privilege and the other to make an argument against this tax bill."

"On the point of personal privilege I wish to say that about one month ago there appeared in the various newspapers of the state articles that I was being considered for appointment to the state board of control. I have reasonable definite knowledge of knowing from where this originated and I wish to say relative to this appointment before I vote on this tax measure that I never made application for this position."

DID NOT SEEK JOB

"I am saying that I did not seek this position so that it would not appear to this body that I was sold out. I wish further to say that there was an attempt on the part of certain authorities to put a dog collar on me and lead me around, but I wish to say that I am not going to wear a red necktie or a fed flannel shirt for anyone, and neither am I going to be lead around by a dog collar."

"In this room an officer in the service of the state came to me and said: 'Senator Ridgway are you anxious to have that friend of yours in Walworth appointed as county judge?'"

Father Ends Vigil When Son Is Found

Superior—Unable to sleep because of the thought that his son's body was floating in Superior bay, John Martin, father of Larry Martin, age 14, who was drowned Monday afternoon, Thursday ended his vigil and search when the body of the boy washed ashore. The father has been without sleep since the child fell from a raft into deep water and was never seen again until Thursday morning.

SENATE PUTS OFF ACTION ON PROBE

Madison—The Johnson joint resolution calling for a sweeping investigation into alleged personal and official misconduct by members of the legislature was given brief but lively consideration in the lower house Thursday morning. A motion by Assemblyman John Gagner that action be deferred until Friday carried 45 to 38.

The resolution, introduced Wednesday, was taken up under the unanimous consent agreement upon request of Assemblyman Prescott of Milwaukee. Mr. Prescott declared that he was "heartily in favor of such an investigation" and that he "wanted the people to know that they at least had a clean assembly."

USE AUTOMOBILES AS BATHING CONVENIENCE

"Choose your beach, then duck," seems to be the slogan of many Appleton people who are making the automobile act as a bathing convenience. They are not all young dappers and "sheiks," who get into their bathing suits at home and then auto to their favorite "swimming hole" and plunge in.

Especially during the hot days, many auto-loads of bathers go through the downtown district on their way to Lake Winnebago. Some of them swim at the regular bathing beaches at the resorts, but others have favorite beaches along the shore to which they prefer to go.

No Relief Yet From Heat Wave, Says Uncle Sam

Little relief from the heat wave of the last few days is promised in the weather forecast from Washington for the next 24 hours. Some portions are promised cooler weather but the prediction for the Mississippi valley is "continued warm." Farmers are becoming concerned at the way the young crops are drying up.

No heat sensations have been reported up to noon but there is plenty of discomfort and much wishing for rain or cooler weather. Showers are reported in the northwestern part of the state.

The torrid wave is accompanied by what is termed by most people to be a freak rainbow. It appeared in the western sky between 5 and 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

Few can recall when a rainbow ever was visible in the west in this region. It usually spans the eastern sky or might be a little to the south. Another queer fact is that its appearance was not preceded by a rainstorm, as usually is the case.

There is an old saying that "A rainbow at night is the sailor's delight and a rainbow in the morning, sailors take warning." Much speculation therefore has been caused by this odd sign. Some insisted it meant rain and others voiced fear that a cyclone might result.

The temperature was about the same as Wednesday. The thermometer registered 83 degrees in the shade at 1 o'clock. The weather at Superior is in direct contrast, where heavy coats are being used. The maximum temperature there was 40 degrees Thursday morning.

CITY ORDERS 200 ARTERIAL STREET SIGNS

Council Defers Final Action On Ordinance—Drops Union
And Pacific-sts

Final action on an arterial street plan for Appleton was deferred by the common council at its meeting Wednesday evening until the next regular session, after adoption of a provision eliminating two of the proposed highways and presentation of an ordinance for enforcement of the new traffic regulations. The meeting date comes on July 4, but probably will be adjourned 24 hours.

Purchase of 200 arterial highway signs was authorized by the council following a recommendation of the committee on streets and bridges. A stock sign will be ordered along the same lines as the Menasha arterial highway signs.

The upper half of this sign is painted black, the lower half red. The sign itself is in the form of a shield measuring about 1 1/2 feet each way. The words "Arterial highway," one below the other, are painted in white letters on a black background, and the word "STOP," in white letters on a red background.

Streets eliminated from the plan first adopted are Union-st, from College-ave to Pacific-st, and Pacific-st, from Union-st to Rankin-st.

Mayor Reuter suggested that the council, before taking final action on the matter, study the arterial highway system as proposed from a map. R. M. Connelly, city engineer, was requested to prepare an arterial highway map for presentation at the next council meeting.

A resolution to enforce arterial highway traffic was presented by Theodore Berg, city attorney, but not taken when action on it was deferred to the next meeting.

The arterial highway plan in its present form, which is subject to changes that may be made at the next meeting, is as follows:

College-ave, Outagamie-st to Green Bay-st.

Second-ave, Richmond-st to Meade-st.

North-st, Oneida-st to Rankin-st.

Outagamie-st, Second-ave to Lawrence-st.

Lawrence-st, Oneida-st to Pearl-st.

Pearl-st and Lake-st to Foster-st.

Walnut-st, Prospect-st to College-ave.

BERLIN WOULD DEAL DIRECT WITH PARIS

By Associated Press
London—Developments of great importance are impending in Franco-German relations, says an article printed in the Daily Telegraph Thursday. The writer asserts that the German government has taken practical steps to determine a method which, without prejudicing the position of Great Britain, would lead to direct conversations between Paris and Berlin. The neutral countries of Central Europe, he adds, are being used as bases from which feelers to this end are going out.

The writer represents the German government as especially anxious because it sees that its policy in the Ruhr is gradually slipping from its control. The problem of passive resistance, he continues, may be boiled down practically to a question of reinstating the expelled German officials. Berlin insisting upon such a step, and Paris as firmly refusing. At the present stage, the conversations threaten to break down on this point, says the article.

COURT DENIES PETITION OF LAWYER IN SHILOH CASE

Lansing, Mich.—A petition and affidavit filed by Walter M. Nelson, Detroit attorney, in appealing from a thirty day sentence for contempt of court, and in which he accused Governor Greenback and other officials of adopting a "hands off" policy on the house of David colony at Benton Harbor, were virtually thrown out by the state supreme court.

The court ordered Nelson to withdraw the petition, without prejudice to his right to file another setting up only facts within the knowledge of Judge Harry Dingsman, who ordered him jailed in connection with testimony he gave in the grand jury investigation of the house of David.

10 Negroes Are Dead In Chicago Fire

By Associated Press
Chicago—Ten negroes are known to have been killed and at least 25 were injured in a fire which swept a three story tenement house here early Thursday. The 160 Negro tenants of the building were cut off from escape by the destruction of the main stairway, and numbers jumped to the streets from windows.

DGA-Rendingsyad umoRiHyltahuyin Scores of heroic rescues were made by firemen.

The fire started in a furniture store on the ground floor and quickly destroyed the wooden tenement.

The dead were taken to a nearby morgue for identification. The injured are being treated at emergency hospitals.

Later, Joseph Smith, wealthy Negro owner of the furniture store, was arrested.

The fire which started from an unexplained cause, spread rapidly through the store and attacked the wooden stairs leading to the upper floors before any occupants of the tenement awakened.

When the firemen arrived, the first floor and entrance way were masses of flames.

SENATE PASSES NEW HIGHWAY TAX MEASURE

Severson Surtax Amendment To Board Of Control Appropriation Defeated

By Associated Press
Madison—The senate Thursday passed the Polakowski bill calling for a highway privilege tax to take the place of the present personal property tax on automobiles. This measure, estimated to produce $2,500,000 annually, was put thru the upper house on a 16 to 15 vote with Lieutenant Governor George F. Comings casting the deciding ballot.

Funds raised by the proposed privilege tax would be paid to localities.

Madison—Heat got the better of the Wisconsin senate's dignity Thursday with the result that senators doffed their coats for the first time within the memory of veteran legislators.

Sensors complained that they had witnessed the heat wave to the limit of their endurance, and upon request of Max Hock, Racine, suspended the rules requiring complete dress at all times, in order to assure comfort.

With the removal of coats came a goodly display of suspenders. Upon this appearance, Lieutenant Governor Comings suggested that members make up for the apparent lack of dignity by showing exemplary personal conduct.

In which collected, to be used for road building purposes. The personal property tax offset on automobiles would be eliminated.

This measure is in addition to the weight tax and gasoline tax bills already passed by both houses of the legislature and increases the total proposed revenue for road purposes to $11,500,000 annually.

The highway privilege tax proposed in the Polakowski bill would assess local personal property tax rate on the valuation of automobiles, rather than establishing a flat 2 per cent rate, based upon valuation.

SURFMAN KILLED

The Wisconsin senate displayed its attitude toward surfax amendments to large appropriation bills by defeating the first of these measures at its session Wednesday night. Voting 17 to 15, the upper house killed the Severson surfax amendment.

Senator H. J. Severson, author of the proposed amendment, told the upper house that should a general income tax bill pass, the legislature surtax would be done away with, but should that fail, a means of raising funds to finance the state government would be provided by the surfax proposal. He said that there was little likelihood that any appropriations would get through the assembly unless some means of financing were proposed.

DEMOCRATS ARE NOT ALARMED BY HARDING TRIP

Nation's Executive Will Not Be Bothered By Politically
Opposed Speakers

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The Democrats look upon President Harding's western trip without apprehension or concern. They really think it will ultimately yield political benefits in their direction.

President Taft's swing around the circle was followed by widespread emergency in the Republican party. Disaffection exists in the ranks of republicanism today, especially in the west. The Democrats are not expecting a third party to be developed this time as in 1912, but any friction in the Republican party will tend to enhance the opportunity of the Democrats to make a platform and nominate a candidate of special appeal to the discontented elements.

As yet no plan has been made to trail the president with speakers or to answer his speech by the strategy of the Democrats is to let Mr. Harding have the political stage to himself, for he is in defensive position anyway and critics will analyze his utterances much more effectively if unhampered by the partisan outburst of an active political opposition.

MUST DEFINE ISSUES

The president will have to define the issues. The Democrats are in a position to pick flaws in the presidential program without at this time offering an alternative. Their tactics will be to break down the force of the presidential achievement and leave until the next Democratic convention the task of framing a platform in answer to it.

G. O. P. MAY ATTACK

The president himself will be able to some extent to keep his political foes from bombarding him if he sticks to a nonpartisan style of speech. If, however, he plunges boldly into Republican achievements, he will invite reproaches. Mr. Harding, however, is more likely to find himself attacked by Republicans who disagree with him than Democrats. His first speech on the world court is awaited with much interest by the "irreconcilable" element in his party. The general expectation is that Senator Borah will be particularly aggressive in attacking the president, on the world court question but it would not be surprising if the Idaho senator made only a gesture of opposition. The truth is, Senator Borah is up for reelection next year and he needs the support of the regular Republicans to win the nomination. Politically speaking, it behooves him to straddle at the moment, and not to antagonize the regulars.

JOHNSON DANGEROUS

As for Hiram Johnson, senior senator from California, nobody knows yet what his attitude will be. The president makes a speech in California after returning from Alaska. Should he mention the world court or anything else on which Senator Johnson disagrees, there will certainly be some response from the California "irreconcilable." The last word, however, is that the world court will be made the subject of presidential discourse in St. Louis, where the comment of Senator James Reed, Democrat, will not hurt Republican harmony, and that the subject will not be revived in California. Any attempt to turn Hiram Johnson's home state against his way of thinking on anything would put the senior senator on the warpath against President Harding.

WAIT WATCHFULLY

Democratic hopes of western political earthquakes may, therefore, not materialize so far as insurgent Republicans are concerned, though it is quite possible the world court issue will be sidetracked in importance alongside of agricultural problems which, after all, were the crux of the western revolt last autumn. The policy of the Democrats will be to wait watchfully the opportunity to take advantage of any misplays by Mr. Harding, and if his speeches are unconvincing in themselves, the Democratic strategists are too shrewd to stir up partisan emotions at a time when unprejudiced scrutiny of the president's utterances might redound to their benefit. The real reply to the western trip of President Harding will probably be made in the next congress when the Republicans from the west show their hand. If he wins the west, they will be tractable if he doesn't make an effective impression, they will be recalcitrant. The Democrats feel they need only to wait to see which way the cat jumps before committing themselves to any thing.

Swarm Of Bees Take Joy Ride In Passing Car

By Associated Press
Rice Lake—Queens will always be ace high for R. K. Meeker, Milwaukee insurance agent, as the result of an exciting half mile automobile ride here Wednesday. While driving a sedan car along state highway No. 11, and enjoying the scenery, a queen bee flew in the open car window followed by a swarm of hundreds of bees. The bees lit all over the driver and the noise of his car was drowned out by the buzzing of the insects. For a half mile he drove his car to the limit of its speed but to no avail. At last he espied a boy coming from a swim with a bathing suit in his hand. The driver snatched the wet suit and beat the queen and her followers from his car. He was not stung once.

MELLON FACES NEW SHIP RUM PROBLEM

Question Whether U. S. Agent
Dare Destroy Foreign Government Seals

Washington—Secretary Mellon began a series of conferences Thursday in an effort to clear up the new ship liquor situation developing from the determination of several foreign shipping companies to bring liquor into American waters under the customs seals of their governments.

Prior to the deliberations, the secretary declared there was no doubt of the general right to seize contraband within American waters, but added that the question whether an agent of the American government dared destroy a foreign government seal presented a grave problem.

BELOIT TEACHERS RESIGN AS COLLEAGUE IS OUSTED

Beloit—Resignation of two Beloit college professors, Dr. W. A. Hamfron and Dean C. A. Clarke, has been announced following the announcement of the resignation of Dr. C. D. Pellet, Chicago chairman of the board of trustees, that ex-President Edward D. Eaton will return as president ad interim.

Dr. Hamilton, who was chairman of the administrative committee which has been operating the college since the departure of President M. A. Branon for Montana last winter resigned Thursday morning because, he asserts, Dean Clarke, his colleague on the board, virtually was ousted from his position on the faculty by the planned change of management.

Dr. Hamilton, one of the oldest Beloit college professors in point of service, has been here since 1902. He has been head of the department of mathematics and astronomy and for the last six years has been in the administrative department.

Dean Anna Lytle Tannabill, another member of the administrative committee, resigned some weeks ago. Dr. George L. Collie succeeded Dean Clarke as dean of men at Eaton's request, Pellet said.

YEGGS USE CHLOROFORM; TEN VICTIMS ARE ILL

New York — Burglars, using chloroform sprays, entered three different apartment houses early today and escaped with loot valued at about $800. Four men, two women, and four children, overcome by the fumes, awakened five hours later, violently ill. They are under the care of physicians.

The robberies all were in Hewitt place, the Bronx, a district in which many working people live. Police of the Simpson street station declared the burglars evidently were experts and that they would not have stopped even if murder if any of their victims had fought off the anesthetic while they were at work.

PRESIDENT FREES 24 WAR-TIME OFFENDERS

Washington, D. C.—Before departing for Alaska Wednesday, President Harding commuted the sentences of twenty-four of the forty-eight "political prisoners" still imprisoned for conspiracy to obstruct the conduct of the war.

All of the twenty-two remaining defendants in the I. W. W. trial at Chicago were ordered released, but eleven were denied twenty convicted in California and one in Kansas, on account of the vicious character of their offenses.

GREEKS DISMISS FOREIGN ARMY AND NAVY TUTORS

Athens—Greece's army and navy and police will no longer be under foreign tutelage. For reasons of economy, the government has decided to abrogate its contracts with the British naval mission, the French military mission, and the Italian police mission, granting their members six months' pay in lieu of notice.

The only mission remaining in Greece now is the British police mission, under Sir Frederick Halliday, which has been here since 1919 and has been hard work in reorganizing the Greek police on the lines of the London police force. The government's decision will be a severe blow to the foreign naval and military missions, whose members drew not only salaries from their own countries, but from the Greek government as well.

Upper House Gives Measure Repealing Dry Enforcement Little Consideration

ENDS ATTACKS FOR 2 YEARS

Wets And Drys Agree Liquor
Problem Will Be Chief Issue
Of Next Campaign

By Associated Press
Madison—The Wisconsin prohibition enforcement law stands safe against attack for another two years, as a result of action by the senate Wednesday night, killing the Tucker bill providing for repeal of the Severson liquor law.

With nonconcurrence in this repeal measure, 18 to 12, the last of the bills aimed at prohibition enforcement was sent to its death by the senate house. All legislation relating to the liquor question is now out of the way and beyond possibility of revival.

The senate gave little consideration to the Tucker bill. Its membership permitted no discussion of the merits of the measure, killing it without a word being said in defense.

Sensor H. J. Severson, father of the Wisconsin dry law, in the midst of a long calendar, moved that the repeal bill be taken up and disposed of. He said that it was his understanding that there was to be no discussion of the proposal.

At this juncture, Senator John C. Schumann, Watertown, offered a substitute amendment providing for submission of the question to a referendum. Senator Severson "closed the point of order," and the substitute was not taken up. The amendment was taken up by Senator Henry Roethe, who was in the chair.

A vote, taken at once on the question of doing away with state enforcement showed the following lineup:

For repeal—Barber, Benfer, Billgrien, Burke, Czerwinski, Gellman, Hirsch, Mahon, Moran, Morris, Polakowski, White—12.

Against repeal—Cashman, Casperson, Clark, Garey, Hecky, Huber, Johnson, Kemp, Kuckuk, Lange, Ridgway, Roethe, Schumann, Severson, Skogmo, Smith, Staudenmayer, Teasdale, Titus—19.

Paired—Quick for the bill, Werden against.

This ended the attempt of assembly wets to follow the example set by New York in repealing its state enforcement law.

Wets and dries alike agreed that with the senate vote, one of the principal issues of the next political campaign in Wisconsin was laid down.

POWER OF RADIO

Imagine one man big enough to haul at one time all the freight moved in the United States in a year.

If you can conceive this tremendous feat, you can realize the tremendous amount of amplification that is used in radio. For here, from the feeble current put into the transmitting microphone at the broadcasting station, the power is amplified three million times before it gets to the antenna.

The change is as great as endowing a man with the power to move more than 400 billion ton-miles of freight at one time as easily as you would lift a four-ounce weight. And, to complete the comparison, this giant could control this immense power with the utmost flexibility increasing his speed as frequently as 3000 to 5000 times a second.

That's the power behind your radio receiver.

The limit of known and practical radio waves is from about 50 meters to about 20,000. What is beyond?

Dr. E. F. Nichols and J. D. Tear have just succeeded in obtaining a short wave as 1-10th of an inch long, in the laboratory of the National Lamp Works at Cleveland. That's the closest to heat waves scientists ever have come. Proving that radio waves are simply longer waves in the same family as heat and light waves.

These radio waves continue up in length until a definite practical limit seems to be reached. What is beyond? Spirit waves? Perhaps. Experiments are being conducted by scientists to find out.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, interested in psychic phenomena, says this about such a probability: "Wireless takes us into an etheric region, and it is our provisional belief of psychic life is also on an etheric level and expressed in etheric terms. Therefore, I think, there is great hope that wireless, possibly on a far longer wavelength, may give us wonderful results. Several important experiments are progressing along this line."

Experiments have been able to get results on wavelengths as high as 150,000 meters. Beyond this, perhaps, may be the key to the spirit world.

Increased acreage in peas in the town of Greenville has induced the Hortonville Canning company to erect a new double viner station at Mills corners. The single viner erected there last year has been removed. The company also erected a viner this year on the Julius Seifert farm in Greenville and last year another was placed at Harry Leppla's corners.

BOND MEASURE IS PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Zoning Ordinance Amended So Bank Can Add Five Stories To Building

The initial resolution authorizing the sale of $250,000 additional junior high school bonds for the completion of the city's double junior high school program of buildings with gymnasiums and auditoriums was given final passage and with a unanimous vote by the common council at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Bonds will be of the denomination of $1,000 each, will bear interest from Feb. 1, 1924, at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent, payable semi-annually on Feb. 1 and Aug. 1 of each year until maturity as follows: bonds No. 1 to 70, Feb. 1, 1941; bonds 71 to 130, Feb. 1, 1942; bonds 131 to 190, Feb. 1, 1943; bonds 191 to 250 Feb. 1, 1944.

This bond issue will raise the city's total bonded indebtedness to $1,054,000 which includes waterworks bonds, $5,000 in high school bonds and a previous issue of $425,000 in junior high school bonds. This is still about $250,000 short of the 5 per cent of the city's total assessed valuation above which it is impossible to issue bonds.

WILL DELIVER BONDS
Contract for the $250,000 bond issue awarded June 6 to Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago has been completed, and the mayor and city clerk have been authorized to deliver the bonds in person, their traveling expenses to Chicago to be paid out of the general fund.

Two amendments to the city's zoning ordinance were passed Wednesday evening. One was to change the height limit of buildings on College-ave from 65 to 90 feet.

The change was made after the Citizens National bank had applied for a building permit to erect five additional stories to its present building at College-ave and Oneida-st.

Another amendment transferred 500 line property in Clark addition, Fifth ward, from the residential area to the commercial and light manufacturing district.

Together with a resolution of the fire and water committee authorizing the extension of more water mains, the council decided to order 1,000 feet more of fire hose and to remove all watering troughs except that in the stock fair grounds. The maintenance of the watering troughs was considered a needless expense.

Contract for building cement sidewalks for the 1923 season was awarded to F. Lullge, Jr., at the price of 17 cents a square foot. Otto Schultz and Louis Waltman were the other bidders at 18 cents a square foot.

Provision of toilets at Pierce park for the Fourth of July celebration was authorized and the entertainment committee empowered to act.

PURCHASE OIL
Purchase of four cars of heavy street oil and one carload of light oil from Camden Petroleum company was authorized and a new schedule of street oiling was adopted.

The following were appointed by Mayor Reuter to compose the equalization board on assessments: Aldermen J. A. Wood, C. D. Thompson, A. W. Laabs, Jerry Callahan, Charles Fose, H. R. Beske. The mayor and city clerk are ex officio members of the board.

Alderman H. R. Beske and F. P. Young and William Fountain, whose terms as members of the library board had expired, were reelected.

Among the street recommendations that were adopted were replanking of the Lawrence-st bridge at Drew-st and building of a sewer on Summer-st from Harriman-st to North Division-st.

The following claims and pensions were referred to committees: Claim of Ella Butler for compensation under the state compensation act for the death of William S. Butler while in the city employ, requests for raise in salary of the swimming pool caretaker now receiving $75 a month and that of the city park caretaker from $81 to $90 a month; petition for adoption of a new plat, called Clark's second addition and located in block 83, Fifth ward; resolution for final acceptance of Parkway plat in the Sixth ward; petition of Henry Meiers for a scavenger's license.

Defer Meeting
The meeting of the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce was postponed from Wednesday evening to a week 9 from that date. Because of the hot weather, it was impossible to obtain a quorum.

Wish Now For Frost They Didn't Like

"Frost tonight" was the weather report on May 16 when most of the people of Appleton were going around asking if we were ever going to have summer. Summer is here! And see what you got!

People in the downtown district say that the most repeated question on Wednesday was: "Well, is this hot enough for you?" and of course the answer is: "Isn't this terrible? How hot is it up your way?" When that is repeated ten or fifteen times within as many minutes, the status of the thermometer gets to be a pretty old story.

Just for the sake of varying the conversation, let's take a look at the weather reports in April, that month about which everybody had much to say along this line: "My isn't it cold I wish we'd get a little warm weather." On April 2, the weather man predicted snow and rain with the weather much colder. Three days later snow was promised again, while the next day, snow and much colder was the verdict. A mixture of snow and rain was promised for the next day and on April 9, snow was promised to those who lived on Lake Michigan.

It was little more than a month ago when frost was promised for every night. Now the only frost one gets is in the ice box or out of a dish of ice cream.

FIRE CRACKER ACCIDENT
Burned holes in dresses, burned finger and burned face will be pretty common now until July 4. I saw my first burning accident Wednesday afternoon when a bunch of boys and girls on Locust-st were shooting crackers. One of the boys in his excitement threw a lighted match into a girl's lap. All her dresscrackers were in her lap and before she could drop them, they had started to go off. Her dress was badly burned. C. W.

Joint Initiation For Darboy and Appleton To Be Held
July 8

Joint initiation of 145 members into the Appleton and Darboy branches of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin will take place in St. Joseph hall here on July 8. A membership campaign which closed this week netted 128 new members for the Appleton branch and 20 members for the Darboy branch. The class is the largest ever initiated by the order in Appleton.

The campaign was conducted by Joseph M. Junner, organizer for the order. Mr. Junner organized the Darboy branch about five years ago and it has since doubled its membership even without including the 20 members obtained in the last campaign.

The Appleton branch, which is known as No. 6 now has 532 members, an increase from 432 prior to the campaign. The order has 20,000 members in Wisconsin.

John M. Callahan, Milwaukee, state secretary, and his degree team, will conduct the initiation on Sunday, July 8.

Seven More Candidates Enter Popularity Race

Mail received at Legion headquarters here on Wednesday contained the names of seven more candidates for election as legion queen in the popularity contest which opened Wednesday morning. All the nominations were made prior to the deadline of June 19, and consequently the nominees are eligible to enter the contest.

The seven contestants are all from Appleton. They are: Mathilda Dorn, Leona Storm, Mary Reiter, Mabel Heefe, Florence Humphrey, Louise Norbeck and Leola Neuman.

Voting tickets were distributed to the candidates on Wednesday and most of them started working at once. The first returns are expected Friday or Saturday and thereafter a record of progress will be published in The Post-Crescent.

Votes are to sell for 1 cent each and as many as desired may be purchased. Every cent collected except 10 per cent which goes to the legion posts in whose territories the candidates were nominated goes into the fund.

POWER OF RADIO

Imagine one man big enough to haul at one time all the freight moved in the United States in a year.

If you can conceive this tremendous feat, you can realize the tremendous amount of amplification that is used in radio. For here, from the feeble current put into the transmitting microphone at the broadcasting station, the power is amplified three million times before it gets to the antenna.

The change is as great as endowing a man with the power to move more than 400 billion tons of freight at one time as easily as you would lift a four ounce weight. And, to complete the comparison, this giant could control this immense power with the utmost flexibility increasing his speed as frequently as 3000 to 5000 times a second.

That's the power behind your radio receiver.

The limit of known and practical radio waves is from about 50 meters to about 20,000. What is beyond?

DOUGLAS MACLEAN FORCED TO SHOW NERVE IN PICTURE

Douglas MacLean had to prove his nerve as well as his skill as a comedian during the filming of "Hell Boy 13," Thomas Ince's latest comedy picture, which will be shown at the Elite theater today, Friday and Saturday.

In the role of a young bond broker who turns bell hop when his uncle disinherit him, MacLean pulled several novel stunts that lent thrills as well as laughs to this original farce. When the young chap in the story is locked up by his uncle to prevent him from eloping, he calls out to the fire department, borrows the chief's car and drives at breakneck speed through the city, trying to catch the train on which his sweetheart is leaving. A fire was actually started with the cooperation of the fire department of Los Angeles which is said to have broken all speed records. MacLean needed all his skill as a driver and plenty of nerve besides to make his way through the traffic of the crowded streets of Los Angeles without killing some one or wrecking the car of the fire chief, which he was driving.

EMERSON

Dr. E. F. Nichols and J. D. Tear have just succeeded in obtaining as short a wave as 1.100th of an inch long, in the laboratory of the National Lamp Works at Cleveland. That's the closest to heat waves scientists ever have come. Proving that radio waves are simply longer waves in the same family as heat and light waves.

These radio waves continue up in length until a definite practical limit seems to be reached. What is beyond? Spirit waves? Perhaps. Experiments are being conducted by scientists to find out.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, interested in psychic phenomena, says this about such a probability:

"Wireless takes us into an etheric region, and it is our provisional belief of psychic life is also on an etheric level and expressed in etheric terms. Therefore, I think, there is great hope that wireless, possibly on a far longer wavelength, may give us wonderful results. Several important experiments are progressing along this line."

Experiments have been able to get results on wavelengths as high as 150,000 meters. Beyond this, perhaps, may be the key to the spirit world.

FOR ITCHING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, Itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid, clean, easy to use and dependable. It costs only 35c; an extra large bottle, $1.00. It is positively safe for tender, sensitive skins.

CANNERS BUILD VINERS AT PEA GROWING CENTERS

The single viner erected there last year has been removed. BOND MEASURE IS PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Zoning Ordinance Amended So Bank Can Add Five Stories To Building

The initial resolution authorizing the sale of $250,000 additional junior high school bonds for the completion of the city's double junior high school program of buildings with gymnasiums and auditoriums was given final passage and with a unanimous vote by the common council at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Bonds will be of the denomination of $1,000 each, will bear interest from Feb. 1, 1924, at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent, payable semi-annually on Feb. 1 and Aug. 1 of each year until maturity as follows, bonds No. 1 to 70, Feb. 1, 1941, bonds 71 to 130, Feb. 1, 1942, bonds 131 to 190, Feb. 1, 1943, bonds 191 to 250 Feb. 1, 1944.

This bond issue will raise the city's total bonded indebtedness to $1,654,000 which includes waterworks bonds, $5,000 in high school bonds and a previous issue of $425,000 in junior high school bonds. This is still about $250,000 short of the 5 per cent of the city's total assessed valuation above which it is impossible to issue bonds.

WILL DELIVER BONDS
Contract for the $250,000 bond issue awarded June 6 to Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago has been completed, and the mayor and city clerk have been authorized to deliver the bonds in person, their traveling expenses to Chicago to be paid out of the general fund.

Two amendments to the city's zoning ordinance were passed Wednesday evening. One was to change the height limit of buildings on College-ave from 65 to 90 feet.

The change was made after the Citizens National bank had applied for a building permit to erect five additional stories to its present building at College-ave and Oneida-st.

Another amendment transferred Soo line property in Clark addition, Fifth ward, from the residential area to the commercial and light manufacturing district.

Together with a resolution of the fire and water committee authorizing the extension of more water mains, the council decided to order 1,000 feet more of fire hose and to remove all watering troughs except that in the stock fair grounds. The maintenance of the watering troughs was considered a needless expense.

Contract for building cement sidewalks for the 1923 season was awarded to F. Lillge, Jr., at the price of 17 cents a square foot. Otto Schultz and Louis Waltman were the other bidders at 15 cents a square foot.

Provision of toilets at Pierce park for the Fourth of July celebration was authorized and the entertainment committee empowered to act.

PURCHASE OIL
Purchase of four cars of heavy street oil and one carload of light oil from Camden Petroleum company was authorized and a new schedule of street oiling was adopted.

The following were appointed by Mayor Reuter to compose the equalization board on assessments: Aldermen J. A. Wood, C. D. Thompson, A. W. Laabs, Jerry Callahan, Charles Fosse, H. R. Beske. The mayor and city clerk are ex officio members of the board.

Alderman H. R. Beske and F. P. Young and William Fountain, whose terms as members of the library board had expired, were reelected. Among the street recommendations that were adopted were replanking of the Lawrence-st bridge at Drew-st and building of a sewer on Summer-st from Harman-st to North Division-st.

The following claims and petitions were referred to committees. Claim of Ella Butler for compensation under the state compensation act for the death of William S. Butler while in the city employ; requests for raise in salary of the swimming pool caretaker now receiving $75 a month and that of the city park caretaker from $51 to $90 a month; petition for adoption of a new plan, called Clarks second addition and located in block 33, Fifth ward; resolution for final acceptance of Parkway plat in the Sixth ward, petition of Henry Meiers for a scavenger's license.

Defer Meeting
The meeting of the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce was postponed from Wednesday evening to a week from that date because of the hot weather. It was impossible to obtain a quorum.

Wish Now For Frost They Didn't Like

"Frost tonight" was the weather report on May 16 when most of the people of Appleton were going around asking if we were ever going to have summer. Summer is here! And see what you got!

People in the downtown district say that the most repeated question on Wednesday was: "Well, is this hot enough for you?" and of course the answer is: "Isn't this terrible? How hot is it up your way?" When that is repeated ten or fifteen times within a few minutes, the status of the thermometer gets to be a pretty old story.

Just for the sake of varying the conversation, let's take a look at the weather reports in April, that month about which everybody had much to say along this line: "My isn't it cold. I wish we'd get a little warm weather." On April 2, the weather man predicted snow and rain with the weather much colder. Three days later snow was promised again, while the next day, snow and much colder was the verdict. A mixture of snow and rain was promised for the next day and on April 9, snow was promised to those who lived on Lake Michigan.

It was little more than a month ago when frost was promised for every night. Now the only frost one gets is in the ice box or out of a dish of ice cream.

GOT BATH, THEN RIDE

Tuesday evening my girl friend and I were coming home from work when we were given an unexpected shower bath and then a ride home. He was very apologetic and in order to show us that he was really sorry for our inconvenience, he

FIRE CRACKER ACCIDENT
Burned holes in dresses, burned finger and burned face will be pretty common now until July 4. I saw my first burning accident Wednesday afternoon when a bunch of boys and girls on Locust-st. were shooting crackers. One of the boys in his excitement threw a lighted match into a girl's lap. All her firecrackers were in her lap and before she could drop them, they had started to go off. Her dress was badly burned. C. W.

THE APPROACHING CAMPAIGN

Signs of the approaching presidential campaign are not wanting. Mr. Harding is going before the public more regularly with speeches and statements, all of which have about them a political tinge. It can be accepted definitely that Mr. Harding is a candidate for a second term and that he will receive the nomination from the regular organization. All of the machinery of the party is being oiled up and in fact set in motion in preparation for the election.

The indications now are that there will be a rupture in the Republican party that should have occurred long ago. The radicals who have been masquerading under its title for the last eight or ten years and who have in truth nothing in common with its principles, are getting ready to formally desert and start a party of their own. Mr. LaFollette hopes to head this party, although it is possible that the honor may go to Mr. Borah or some less extreme leader. This defection from the Republican party will be a healthy political development all around. It will define Republican principles more accurately for what they are, and will separate the sheep from the goats, so to speak. The radicals have affiliated with it solely because of its political strength and the delusion that they might in some manner acquire control of its machinery. It has not been an honest association, and the Republicans are as censurable for tolerating it as the heretics are for using its name under false pretenses. Mr. LaFollette, for instance, has had no more business in the Republican party for the last eight years than Josephus Daniels or Mr. MacAdoo. It reflects no credit upon his political reputation that he has long employed the Republican label as a subterfuge to help keep him in power.

This time it looks as though the break would have to come, and that there is to be a readjustment of party lines more in accordance with convictions and principles. The Republican party will naturally remain the conservative party, and there does not seem to be much prospect of weeding from it reactionary control. Because of its powerful leadership and thorough machine it stands an excellent chance of victory in the approaching campaign, but it is only a question of time until it is only a question of time until it will be again discredited and retired. The true progressives or liberals will theoretically gravitate in the direction of the Democratic party, and it is not unlikely that there will be a consolidation of these elements in the near future. Its prestige and success will depend wholly upon its leadership should such a coalition take place. In that event the radicals would be left high and dry as a very small minority. Developments of 1924 promise to be of utmost importance.

GREAT BRITAIN AND REPARATIONS

The situation in Europe continues without any definite sign of a solution of the problems which are keeping its politics in chaos and are preventing its economic restoration. Great Britain formally refuses "to make any declaration on the part of the government which would imply approval" of the occupation of the Ruhr. While she has invited an international conference, in which the United States might participate, for consideration of the questions relating to the French occupation, her position remains essentially what it was at the beginning. France insists she will not withdraw from the Ruhr until Germany commences to pay reparations substantially and in good faith. It is an entirely reasonable condition to withdrawal and one which must be met before there can be any hope of adjustment. At the same time, the situation in Germany is becoming steadily worse and the necessity for some solution of the deadlock becomes greater each day.

Great Britain's refusal to approve the occupation of the Ruhr, it should be understood, is not based upon non-support of France's claim to indemnity, or of effective methods for enforcing payment. Great Britain's attitude is based upon a desire to retain so far as she is concerned a construction of the treaty, both legal and moral, that denies the right of invasion. She does not for obvious reasons wish to concede this right to France, which would be equivalent to confirming in her ally the privilege to do anywhere in Germany what she is now doing in the Ruhr.

Perhaps the overtures of Great Britain will result in a specific statement of policy on the part of M. Poincare that will permit of further negotiations. If this results it is not improbable that Germany could be easily induced to meet her reparational obligations and thus appease France.

FIRST BLOOD FOR LAKE STATES

The fight of the Lake states, which has crystallized about Wisconsin, to prevent the city of Chicago from diverting an excessive amount of water from Lake Michigan for alleged sanitary purposes is going successfully forward. Federal Judge Carpenter at Chicago has granted an injunction restraining the Chicago sanitary district from using more lake water for the canal than was specified in the war department's permit. The issue will be taken to the supreme court of the United States and a final determination of the matter cannot be had until this decision is obtained. However, it is gratifying to the lake cities of Wisconsin that first blood in the controversy goes to those who are seeking to conserve the lake levels and to promote lake navigation. There is excellent reason for believing that the ground on which the injunction was applied for before Judge Carpenter will hold water and that the ultimate decision by the supreme court will sustain the injunction.

Chicago is making a plausible but, in our opinion, a wholly fallacious appeal to public sentiment in support of its desire to use a considerable amount of lake water for sanitary purposes. It is easy enough to present facts and figures that will justify its course, provided serious consideration is not given to alternative methods by which Chicago's sanitary problems may be handled.

The plain truth is that the proper method for disposing of Chicago's sewage is the erection of a modern mechanical plant for that purpose. In its determination to float sewage down the canal polluting the water to the detriment of cities and towns and farms below it, Chicago is simply clinging to archaic and decidedly insanitary usages to get rid of its waste. A modern sewage disposal plant would cost a great many million dollars, and it is for this reason only that Chicago holds to the hope that it can avoid the expense and get away with its sewage disposal by the convenient route of flushing a canal with lake water. The amount of water used today is in excess of the volume permitted by the war department, and it is in excess of navigation requirements, even assuming that we are to have a lakes-to-the-gulf waterway.

Chicago is renewing her talk about the construction of compensating works in the St. Clair river to take care of a reduction in upper lake levels, but this is another form of evasion and the lake states ought not to be misled by it. Chicago has no claim upon lake water that is superior to or even comparable with the rights of the lake states in the large territory tributary to them.

It is Chicago's duty to take care of its sewage problem in a modern, enlightened manner. If it is compelled to do this, the trouble will be automatically settled and the interests of lake navigation will no longer be jeopardized.

Some party can have this slogan for their presidential race: "When in rum vote as the rumblers do."

International Nickel Co. says business is better. Nickels do seem to be working pretty hard.

THE VACATION EMERGENCY KIT

What with a thousand plausible theories and systems of catching and treating things, a suitable emergency kit, not an extra suit of undies, becomes the paramount item to provide for one's vacation. Here is a list of the simplest essentials of such an emergency kit which may be carried in a pocket of your coat, your car or your traveling bag. It is only fair that I should acknowledge my indebtedness to the author of "Personal Health" (W. B. Saunders Co., Philadelphia), particularly to the chapter in that book which gives detailed directions concerning the treatment of ordinary emergencies.

Pocket Emergency Outfit

- 1.—One-half ounce tincture of iodine in a strong vial.
- 2.—Two sterilized gauze compresses in sealed envelopes.
- 3.—Two two inch gauze bandages.
- 4.—Two ounce carton of absorbent cotton.
- 5.—Spool of zinc oxide adhesive plaster one inch wide.
- 6.—One-half ounce flexible collodion in strong vial.
- 7.—Collapsible tube of plain petrolatum or freshly made cold cream or zinc oxide or boric acid ointment.
- 8.—One ounce aromatic spirits of ammonia in strong vial.
- 9.—Two salicylic powders in waxed envelopes.
- 10.—A dozen five grain acetyl salicylic acid tablets.

The acetyl salicylic acid is one of the least harmful painkillers for headache and similar conditions. Prevention is generally better than cure. Do not cut corners or try to save the car ahead, just before you meet the wayfarer who is coming up the other side of the hill. But if you deem valor the better virtue, let the first person who comes along unwrap the kit, wind a bit of cotton on a match and give each of your wounds and abrasions one swabbing with the iodine. If there is no bleeding, the cut or abrasion may be sealed by painting on several coats of the collodion with another wisp of cotton wrapped on a matchstick. If there is a gaping cut or wound the iodine having been swabbed on and in it, a few strips of adhesive plaster may be applied to draw the edges together, then a gauze compress and either a bandage or adhesive plaster to hold the dressing in place. We haven't time now to dwell upon the great importance of aseptic (not antiseptic) precautions in all this emergency treatment, save to say that no finger nor other unsterilized object should touch a wound.

For sunburn, ordinary burns, insect bites, blisters and the like, the zinc oxide and boric acid ointment, or freshly made cold cream or plain petrolatum may be applied. A teaspoonful or less of aromatic spirits of ammonia, given in one or two ounces of cold water (about an inch in a teaspoon or glass) is a quick curative stimulant in case of fainting, shock or collapse from any cause; the dose may be repeated in 15 minutes.

Ascidit powder, in one dose (in water) or in three or four divided doses, is a simple remedy for "sick stomach."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dry, Rough, Dirty Elbows

Skin creams do no good, indeed they seem to make matters worse. It is most discouraging. My elbows positively look dirty. The skin is harsh and scaly, and it is the same on my legs, which I don't mind so much except in the swimming season.

—Miss H. E.
Answer.—Eczema, fishskin disease, alligator hide, xerosis, xeroderma—help yourself to your choice of names for it. In some instances it is just an outward manifestation of a ductless gland deficiency which may be remedied by a course of medication under your physician's direction. Avoid soaps. Avoid water washing as much as possible, use oil rubs to cleanse the affected portions of skin. There is a deficiency of the natural oil of the skin (sebum) which calls for artificial oiling. A few drops of the following preparation may be applied to the affected portions of skin night and morning:

- Salicylic acid30 grains
- Powdered benzoin20 grains
- Absolute alcohol15 grains
- Oil of sesame (also called teel oil) and benzoin oil4 ounces

The formula must be prepared by the pharmacist, by digesting three hours over a water bath and then filtering.

TOWN TO OBSERVE

"LOVE ENEMY WEEK"
Gloucester City, N. J. The country has just finished celebrating "Boy Week," "Music Week" and a lot of other weeks. The very latest in "week celebrations" will begin here June 17, when "Love Thy Enemy Week" will open. Every pastor in the city has been asked to preach on the subject and every resident has been asked to hunt up his enemies and extend the hand of friendship and forgiveness or fellowship and forgiveness or fellowship. Mayor McNally has sanctioned the week of "for-siving."

Truly, the millenium arrives in Gloucester City. Appleton needs no such week. We love 'em the year around.

If you think the bridge controversy in Appleton was a warm one, get hold of current Stevens Point papers and read what Clark-st and Main-st bridge advocates are saying about one another. They haven't any bridge there now. Fire destroyed the only passage over the Wisconsin River, and an old-fashioned ferry is transporting autos, animals and pedestrians.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE WORLD

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Every day it becomes plainer that, to the average voter, prohibition will be the main issue of the 1924 political campaign.

The politicians would like to straddle, but President Harding has put the Republican on record as drys, and there's small chance that anybody can get the Democratic presidential nomination who isn't somewhat sympathetic, at least, toward the wets.

The Eighteenth Amendment's repeal won't be asked. The demand will be for what the wets call reasonable interpretation of:

What's an intoxicating drink?

PROHIBITION AT SEA

The administration admits it's "in the air" over the question of letting foreign ships bring liquor into American waters for their own use—under seal while here.

Our law says they mustn't. Several countries have laws compelling their ships to serve wine to their crews. They must break THEIR laws to obey OURS. The administration says they must obey OURS anyway. This causes such a snarl that they're told, on the "q. t.," they won't be bothered if they're VERY CAREFUL.

The administration realizes this position's dangers so keenly that Congress is to be asked to change the law. The trouble is, Congress surely won't. Most drys won't vote for a change. Neither will the wets—for one like this. They want wine and beer IN THE UNITED STATES. They don't care about foreign ships. They're glad the administration's in trouble. They figure trouble will hasten a change—a big change, not the little one the administration wants.

DRINK SMUGGLING PROBLEM

One administration plan is to allow foreign ships to bring liquors under seal into American ports—if their countries will let America extend her anti-drink-smuggling raids from three to 12 miles out at sea.

British newspapers call attention to the fact that England almost went to war with Russia a few weeks ago rather than permit the latter to stretch her territorial waters' limit from three to 12 miles.

The French and Italian press takes the view that the United States is trying to "dry up" foreign ships so that they'll no longer have a big advantage in getting passengers away from America's own dry merchant vessels.

MEETING POSTPONED

The president was going to meet the governors of the states to talk over with them plans for making prohibition work. He's postponed this meeting, he doesn't say for how long. Of course the wets say he found out that some governors meant to tell him they don't think the law EVER can be made to work. The administration answers that when the president called the meeting, he really intended to have one—"in good faith."

MORE CHINESE CONFUSION

With Li Yuan Hung's resignation as president of China, the powers are talking more than ever of "intervening" there to protect their resident citizens and interests. They might grab a few cities. The Chinese haven't an army or arms worth mentioning and don't stick to Suits that keep you cool now -- at prices that will help buy coal next winter.

Mohairs—Palm Beaches—Tropical suits that cost you $16.50 to $38.50 and leave you with enough left over to be able to talk to the coal man.

Are they nicely made? Just read the specifications of the Cadillac engine—and drop in.

Tomb Tans—Mummy Blue—Pyramid Grays—a stripe if you like it—or a check if you need it!

gether well. A small, well-armed force could hold a given spot or cut a path across the country quite easily. Cruisers, and gunboats can control the coast and big rivers.

But to police all China is different. It would take millions of soldiers a generation or two, and they might fail then.

However, foreign meddling can keep the Chinese squabbling among themselves.

President Li fled Peking when Feng Tu Hsiang, the so-called Christian general, threatened to seize the city. Maybe Li meant to set up his government somewhere else, but Feng's followers caught him at Tientsin and made him resign.

The Peking cabinet is trying to govern temporarily without a president.

WORRIED OVER BULGARIA

Europe's badly worried over what may follow the militarists' overthrow of the "farm bloc" cabinet under Premier Stambulsky in Bulgaria. Bulgaria took the losing side in the World War. Beaten, Stambulsky came into power. He submitted to the allies' terms. These were severe. Bulgaria lost a few advantages, not to undertake exhaustive research, plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Bulgaria's neighbor, Turkey, didn't submit. She defied the allies and fought England's protégé, Greece. Instead of being submitting, Turkey strengthened herself immensely.

What Europe fears is that King Boris and his new premier, Prof. Zankof, are figuring on following Turkey's example now, and trying to take forcibly what Bulgaria wants.

WHERE WILL IT STOP?

Bulgaria can satisfy her ambitions only at Jugoslavia's, Roumania's and Greece's expense. Their troops are ready to resist. Hungary probably will take a hand, if fighting starts. Even farther-away Czechoslovakia is uneasy.

If these countries took the war trail, where would it stop? In Europe, these times, nobody can tell. That's why there's so much anxiety over what, in itself, is a small disturbance.

For awhile the powers hoped Stambulsky would stage a "come-back." They know now he won't. He's been killed.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers. I decided to try it. I got well and strong again the Vegetable Compound. I see what it would do for before I had finished the bottle I was much better, the pain stopped and the severe sides left me. I am now stronger and do my own work in the factory besides. I am using the Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. M. Quillon, 17 Morris st., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Helen Ornstein Is Praised For Vocal Ability

That Helen Ornstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ornstein, 555 North st., is one of the notable young vocalists in Chicago is shown by a recent review in "Music News" which commented upon her lovely voice. Miss Ornstein appeared at Kimball hall on June 3 with 24 other pupils of Alexander Nakutin and was one of those upon whom the music critic commented favorably. She sang "Song of the Shepherd" from "The Snow Maiden."

Miss Ornstein has been studying in Chicago under Alexander Nakutin a comparatively short time and has appeared in recital with many of the more advanced students. She has sung for some of the visiting artists in Chicago and each has been greatly impressed with the tone quality of her voice. The young Appleton artist will probably study in New York next year.

13 Marriages Wednesday Set Month's Record

June is the month of weddings but Wednesday held the record for the year for the number of marriages. There were 13 for which licenses had been issued here. The record does not quite equal that of Thanksgiving day of last year, when there were 15 in one day.

The first two days of June were quiet ones, with only three couples holding their ceremonies then. June 3 was a marrying day, with nine, and June 6 had six. The other busy day for pastors was June 12, when there were nine. On other days there were two or three. This week will be perhaps the biggest, with a total of 24 marriages.

SATURDAY GAME CALLED OFF; TWO PLAYERS ARE ILL

Hint Fitcher Tate "Threw" Sunday's Game To Oshkosh

Kaukauna—Saturday's baseball game between Eddie Stumpf's warriors and Marinette-Menomonie has been postponed on account of the illness of some of the local players and the inability of others to be present. According to present plans the game will be played July 25 at Marinette. On Sunday afternoon Sheboygan will play the local club on the Kaukauna grounds.

Stumpf has announced that two new men will be on the job Sunday to take the place of Lewis and Earcher who are "under the weather." The game will start at 2:45. Trentman probably will pitch. President John Coppes admitted Wednesday afternoon that two of the Kaukauna players, Tate and Cy Schultz have been indefinitely suspended and fined for their conduct. Schultz failed to put in an appearance for the last several games and Tate apparently deliberately attempted to help lose the game last Saturday at Oshkosh where Kaukauna was defeated 13 to 0. Mr. Coppes said.

Tate was suspended and was fined a fourth of his month's salary and should be able to play again without compensation. Local officials said that Tate had received a better offer from another club in the circuit and believed he could obtain his release from Kaukauna.

Camping Is Fun With Devices Inventors Have Made For Outers

Collapsible Furniture, Umbrella Tents, Cooking And Serving Kits And Other Things Are Offered By Dealers

With the arrival of hot weather the tendency is to hurry off to the lakes woods or some place in the extreme north where the breezes will be cool and living more agreeable than in the cities. Although many will spend the summer at their cottages at one of the numerous lakes, others will plan camping trips for parts of the summer or possibly for one or two weeks when Dad gets his vacation.

The camping trip is probably the most popular way of spending vacations or even much longer stays, especially for persons who have established their business in the hottest portions of the country. Everyone looks forward to the vacation camping trip and it has become possible to make it a trip either of leisure or real rough outdoor living.

The equipment for such trips has been improved and developed until all sorts of luxuries may be enjoyed and still have camping easy and without many household worries. For those who wish to camp after a rougher fashion there is also the necessary equipment.

WANTS COMPACT THINGS
The camper usually wants to carry as much as he thinks he will need on the trip and yet carry it in as compact or easy a way as possible. For the person who takes a long trip, camping along the way under his own tent and carrying his own cooking utensils and "grub" there are possibly bigger changes and improvements in equipment than for the other type of camper. The persons returning every summer to a summer home or cottage on some lake usually have the place furnished the year round and have nothing to take with the exception of the necessary linen and bedding.

For the person taking all his furniture with him as he journeys along there have been developed all sorts of folding things in the furniture line which may be easily set up and yet easily put away in a surprisingly small space in the automobile or van. A number of the pieces of furniture have been made much like those carried in the army. Folding cots are easily set up and make a really comfortable bed after the first night or two when the change from a bed with springs naturally is felt. A fairly good sized folding table may now be included in the camping equipment and when rolled up is very little larger than a cot. Stools and chairs of heavy canvas and wood are other necessary articles easily carried along.

NEW TENT IDEAS
Many types of tents may be secured. The newest on the market is the umbrella tent which opens like an umbrella from a center pole and requires only to be fastened to the ground by the usual ropes and spikes. Other tents which are used are the ordinary army ones in various sizes and the tents which can be fastened to the side of an automobile. The latter are quite popular with persons who take short trips and camp as they go.

Outfits other than tents and furniture are interesting as they are now being made quite complete and of good looking material. Aluminum dishes are the most popular because they do not chip like porcelain and enameled ones. The latter, however, have a big sale. Small outfits consisting of a pail, six plates and six cups are popular for small trips or picnic parties. They come in either aluminum or porcelain and may be secured in sets of four, six or eight.

Extremely good looking and convenient cases containing plates, cups, knives, forks, spoons, a can opener, butter jar, thermos bottle, straight jars and containers for "sauce" may be secured. The dishes and silverware come in sets of four, six or eight and as in the other sets aluminum is the most popular. The cases can be locked and carried by a handle, looking very much like a large suitcase.

KEEPS FOOD COLD
A new feature in camping equipment, possibly more for picnics but also very convenient on long trips is a refrigerator basket which has a compartment for ice and a large compartment for food which would be spoiled in warm weather if carried without ice.

For the persons who want to cook over open wood fires an arrangement called a "grub stake" has been made. It contains the stake to be driven into the ground in the center of the fire and from which may be hung a tea-kettle holder, a standard for a frying pan or dish, tongs for a steak and a caster. On long trips where wood for open fires may not be secured at times, small gasoline stoves with one, two or three burners are the best for cooking. They have a folding back and sides which act as carrying case when not in use. This type of stove in the two burner style is the most popular.

In smaller things for camping trips may be included dishes which are collapsible, like frying pans, cooking dishes, water pails, the latter mostly of canvas, and small wood stoves which may be set up. Water bottles which also act as coolers are in demand and are much like those used in the army or in hot regions when long trips across country are necessary.

Good Coffee

Good Coffee makes friends and celebrates, with gentle rills, the vows of peace. It has given consolation to the world. It is the companion "de-luxe" of the rich, the poor and of the toiler. It is the friend of the imprisoned, of the exile, of the lonely, of the workers in mines, of the fellers of forests, of the husbandman, and of the sailors on the deep and stormy seas. It is the giver of strength and calm in the vexed and weary minds of those who build with thought and brain the temples of the soul. It smooths the mind and fills the heart with rest and peace. Within its magic wand and woe some potent, gracious spell, in prisoned lies, that, when released by fire and brewing, softly steals inside the fortress of the brain and gently binds in sleep the captured sentinels of care and grief. It is the friend of the domestic and the banquet hall. Its fragrant odor, like incense, rises from myriads of happy homes.

FIND MARL DEPOSITS IN LAKES NEAR HERE

Kuckuk Wants Law Changed So That Marl Can Be Used

Establishment of factories to manufacture Portland cement in this vicinity are a possibility since the discovery in the last few weeks of large deposits of marl in the beds of lakes in Shawano and Waupaca cos. Marl is used for the manufacture of cement and also for making fertilizer.

The fact that these marl beds are under lakes, however, has created an unusual situation. Wisconsin laws prohibit private parties from interfering with the beds of lakes and as long as this law is operative the marl cannot be touched except by the state.

To open these deposits for use, Senator Antonio Kuckuk, Shawano proposes that the railroad commission be given authority to make contracts for the removal of the material from beds of any navigable lake, to fix and determine compensation to be paid the state for this material and to lease or sell the marl so found.

The commission would establish conditions for the protection of the interests of the state in permitting removal of the marl deposits.

MARRIAGE DOES NOT MAKE WOMAN CITIZEN OF U. S.

Haskin Tells Post-Crescent Readers Of Naturalization Requirements

"Under the naturalization law of Sept. 22, 1922, a foreign woman does not automatically become a citizen upon the naturalization of her husband. It is therefore necessary for her to apply for naturalization in her own right."

This was the answer given by Fred. Haskin of Washington, D. C., director of the American Post-Crescent information bureau, in answer to a letter of inquiry from several students of the Outagamie County Training school at Kaukauna, who probably needed the information for an essay or examination.

"Why is Hot Springs, Ark., called a city of many disasters?" asks a correspondent of Mr. Haskin. "What are some of the principal disasters besides the recent cloudburst and the $1,000,000 hotel fire?"

"The two greatest disasters in the history of Hot Springs are two fires, one which almost destroyed the city in 1878. The second occurred on Sept. 5, 1913, when more than 50 city blocks were destroyed and about $6,000,000 worth of damage done."

Another reader asks what other minerals besides salt is contained in sea water. The answer was: Magnesium, chloride, magnesium sulphate, calcium sulphate, potassium sulphate, magnesium bromide and calcium carbonate; also silicon, phosphorus, fluorine, iodine, boron, aluminum, barium, manganese, iron, copper, nickel, lead, gold and silver have been known to be present.

Questions like these are answered daily by Mr. Haskin and his assistants for speakers, club members, teachers, students, and all classes of people. A 2-cent stamp will bring a reply. There is no limit to the questions that may be asked.

Last week Mr. Haskin sent 16 free booklets as requested by local residents. The booklets were on the following subjects: First aid, laundry, housecleaning, sewing, oranges, flies, knitting, school child's health, brick homes. Persons are permitted to ask for various booklets as advertised in the Post-Crescent by Mr. Haskin. A 2-cent stamp is required for each. All letters should be addressed to Appleton, Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Bad, Bad Boy Enters Farm Home, Ransacks It and Drives Owner to Ask Court for Warrant—for the "Heinous" Crime of Stealing Oil for His Bicycle.

A Dale farmer sought Wednesday morning to issue a warrant against a former boy employe on some charge of petit larceny, but Judge A. M. Spencer considered the complaint a little too petty.

The boy was bad, very bad in fact, the farmer complained, for without as much as a "by your leave" he entered the farm house and went through the rooms. Then with no more permission he removed certain "goods and chattels thereof" without paying for the same.

"What did he steal?" Judge Spencer asked.

"Well, he went all through the house."

"I asked you, what did he steal?"

"Well, he went in and got the sewing machine oil to oil his bicycle."

For a moment the judge was dumbfounded by the revelation of this "heinous crime," as he called it. He recovered soon enough to direct the farmer to return to his home in Dale as fast as he was able.

NOXIOUS WEEDS MUST BE REMOVED

City Will Do Work If Taxpayer Fails To Comply With Law, Says Connelly

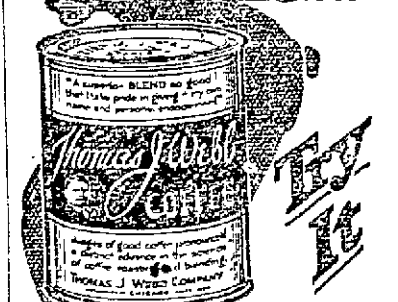

Noxious weeds are beginning to assert themselves in the community and steps should be taken at once to rid properties and vacant lots of the nuisance before they go to seed or spread to adjoining property, according to Robert M. Connelly, city engineer.

Mr. Connelly has been appointed weed commissioner for the coming season and is authorized to notify all owners of properties infested by noxious weeds to have them removed within six days after receipt of the notice. Neglect to then cut or destroy the weeds makes one liable to a fine of $5 each day for which such neglect shall continue, according to the state weed law. The weeds may then be cut under the direction of the weed commissioner and the expense of $5 per day thereafter will be levied against the property in the next tax roll.

The noxious weeds include Canada thistle, white or oxeye daisy, snap dragon or toadflax, sow thistle, sour dock and yellow dock, wild morning glory, field dodder and quack grass.

THE STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR

A Real Achievement in Dollar-for-dollar Value

The thousands of Studebaker Light-Sixes in daily use are the best possible assurance of what may be expected next year—or several years hence—of the Light-Six you buy today.

For after all, the best way to judge a new motor car is by what it has done—how it has stood up in service—the satisfaction it has delivered.

We sincerely believe that the Light-Six Touring car, with its improved all-steel body, is the sturdiest, handsomest, most comfortable, most dependable and economical low-priced car built.

The machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods, to which is largely due its practical absence of vibration, is a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and is found only on a few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

The one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights set in the base, is a joy to the driver—nothing to mar his view of the road ahead. Deep, fat cushions are upholstered in genuine leather. Curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with the doors and provide closed car coziness in bad weather.

The most seasoned driver will find a new thrill in the smooth, quiet, steady performance of the Light-Six—and in its ease of handling, and in the way it performs in high gear at low speeds—eliminating constant gear shifting.

The name Studebaker has stood for high grade transportation, quality, value and integrity for 71 years.

MAYOR LACKS SUPPORT FOR WATER TAXING

Council Argues Charging Of Mains To Abutting Properties But Defers Vote

An attempt by Mayor Henry Reuter to have the council levy special assessments against abutting properties for the installation of water mains instead of having for them at large as formerly, fell short of sufficient support at Wednesday's council meeting.

Those leading the opposition were Aldermen A. W. Laabs, R. F. McGowan, L. O. Hansen and Jerry Callahan. On the other hand, Aldermen C. F. Smith, J. F. Lappen and C. D. Thompson advocated the measure. Inasmuch as other aldermen were unprepared to vote on the matter, Mayor Reuter's proposal was referred to the committee on fire and water with instructions to inquire as to how other cities are financing installation of mains.

Two reasons given by the mayor for the advisability of making the change are: A provision in the general charter law under which the city is now operating making possible the levying of special assessments, and secondly, an ordinance passed by the commission government in 1912 that mains be installed by special assessment. The ordinance, it was said, was never enforced.

TOO LATE, LAABS SAYS

Alderman Laabs, opposing the measure, declared that if the city had always operated under the general charter, the mayor's plan would be feasible but that it is now too late to make the change.

"It is a wrong system," the mayor answered. "And if it is wrong in principle, it will always stay wrong, therefore, it is high time to correct the wrong, instead of continuing to drain the treasury with appropriations for water mains."

The alderman's prediction that such a procedure would have tendency to retard the growth of the city was denied by Mr. Reuter. He maintained that a water main is an asset to every man on the street and enhances considerably the value of each property.

A discussion followed between Mr. Laabs and Alderman Smith.

"I think it is the only system," said Mr. Smith. "It is the system that I have been talking for the last five years. There is no need of people in the heart of the city having to pay for water outside the city for the next 100 years."

"The man on the outside has paid just as much for past extensions as you," Laabs retorted.

"If that man pays for his installation now he is through and never needs to pay for more," was the reply.

LAW PERMITS PLAN

City Attorney Theodore Berg informed the council it had the authority to finance water main extensions either by special assessment or from the general fund. The city of Wausau, he said, pays for one-half of the expense. Other cities levy assessments for the cost of 6-inch mains.

Alderman Hansen declared that if the council had exercised its authority in the matter from the beginning,

EXPECT 70 PRIESTS AT KASTER FUNERAL

Body Will Arrive In Appleton Friday Noon On Way To Green Bay

Funeral services for the Rev. John Kaster, who died here Tuesday night from injuries suffered in an automobile accident, will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in Most Precious Blood Catholic church at New London, of which he was pastor for 22 years. Between seventy and eighty priests are expected to take part in the services.

Solemn requiem high mass will be said by Mr. P. J. Lochmann, pastor of Holy Cross church at Kaukauna. The sermon will be delivered either by Father Broens of Surgeon Bay, or Father John Hummel of Menasha. Both of these men were classmates of the dead priest at St. Francis seminary. They are the only survivors of his class in the Green Bay diocese.

After the services, which will end about noon, the body will be conveyed to Green Bay for burial in the family lot in Allouez cemetery. The cortege will follow highway 33 to Appleton, reaching here about 1 o'clock and then going on highway 13 to Green Bay.

there could have been objection. It is not fair to the taxpayers without water mains who have been paying for main extensions all these years without getting any direct benefit from them was the contention of Aldermen McGowan and Callahan.

"In the long run," said Alderman Lappen, "the taxpayer will save money by it. If he continues to pay as before, in not many years he will have paid for the installation several times, and he will keep on paying for it for the rest of his life."

"Who started this move anyway?" asked Alderman Laabs. "If the council has authority to determine how mains are to be paid for, why not leave it the way it is?"

NO HARDSHIPS

"When tax time comes and people will be complaining about high taxes, you will see why it was advisable to make the change," answered the mayor. "Besides the commission government, as I am told, had already passed an ordinance to change it. This talk about imposing a hardship upon the poor man is a joke. A water main will be of great benefit to the poor man."

"The plan is right in principle, but not fair to all," Laabs maintained. "If it is right in principle, it cannot be fair. A start must be made some time, and the quicker it is done, the better it will be."

The present plan the mayor contended, is an encouragement for owners of large areas of unimproved property to ask for water mains at the city's expense.

Alderman Thompson was of the opinion that if the city tax rate could thereby be lowered several dollars it was worth adopting. Appleton has a reputation for high taxes, and they are brought about largely by such conditions as this, while other cities with lower tax rates have the advantage of the use of special assessments for water mains.

The committee on fire and water was on motion by Mr. Thompson instructed to make a survey of other cities and report to the council in the second meeting of July.

"My wife and myself both have good reasons for praising Tanlac," said John D. Swartley, well-known carpenter, living at 3309 N. Madison-st., Peoria, Ill., a few days ago.

Well the Tanlac treatment has knocked out all my troubles, has given me a corking good appetite, and built up my weight and strength until I simply feel fine. WANTS TO BEAT SUN IN COAST-TO-COAST AIRPLANE FLIGHT

Army Lieutenant Has Hopes Of Making Trip Across U.
S. Same Day

By Associated Press
New York—Some early morning during the week of June 20 a lone aviator will set from the mists that lie thick on Mitchell Field, L. I., and will wave a salute to the sun, just poking its head above the horizon. And then will be staged one of the strangest races in history. For Old Sol has been challenged to his first trans-continental marathon. The challenger is Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan of the army air service, who, between sunrise and sunset of the same day, intends to fly over the 2670 miles lying between New York and San Francisco. More than 82,000,000 miles will separate the competitors. Above the earth's surface a tiny speck will be making its way in an almost imperceptible arc. That will be the aviator chugging along at 160 miles an hour.

CAN HE DO IT?
Higher up in the heavens the sun will take its course in all its accustomed splendor. And because of certain little matters of the earth's revolution it will be making a speed of something like a thousand miles an hour.

And yet these two, who expect to exchange friendly greetings along the edge of the Atlantic ocean early in the morning, hope to keep each other in sight throughout the day, and salute an amicable farewell along the Pacific coast just at sunset.

Can the aviator do it?
"Sure," says this extremely personable young man who has already established a world record of 238 miles an hour over a one-kilometer course and who won the prize at the Pulitzer races last fall by flying at the rate of 206 miles an hour over a course of 100 and 200 kilometers. "I'm just naturally giving myself a lot of handicaps," he explains. "For one thing, I'm choosing the longest day of the year for my flight, which will cover actually about 167 hours."

"Then owing to changes in time between the east and west coast, I will gain over three hours more, so that all in all I am counting on 20 hours of daylight."

FOUR LANDINGS
"This gain in time will enable me to make four landings, at Dayton, St. Joseph, Mo., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Salsdore, Utah, where I can stretch my legs, grab a bite to eat, look over the mechanism, take on fresh oil and gas and be on my way again."

"Then I'm using a new type of army pursuit plane which is especially built for speed at high altitude. Even at 20,000 feet she can go two and a half miles a minute."

"Make it? Well, I'm sort of counting on it, you will know, because it'll be my last try at making a record. There are a lot of other aviators in the service and after we old fellows have made a record we've got to back down and give the others a chance."

Lieutenant Maughan figures roughly that in his cross-country flight he will gain ten minutes on each hour of sun time. And thus, on some day late in June, may be chalked up the first definite entry in the race against Old Sol.

FOUGHT DEATH ON HIGH SEAS 8 DAYS

Crew Of Bessie Dollar Surmounts Unbelievable Difficulties

By Associated Press
Seattle—For eight long days Captain Frank Mechem and his crew of 10 aboard the Bessie Dollar fought a hand-to-hand battle with violent death—pirates of the seven seas. "Not once did the crew think of fear," he says. "They knew the moment had arrived that comes eventually to all seamen and that either they or the elements would win. It was their brawn against a made sea. Most of the time the sea wins, but in this instance the gallant crew was victor."

A tale of fact that rivals the sea stories of Joseph Conrad is told by the plucky skipper, now safely in port here, where he was landed by the S. S. President.

The Bessie Dollar was 2000 miles out of Seattle, when she ran into a typhoon. The ship was tossed about like the fabled cork.

"The rudder was ripped off like a piece of paper," Mechem relates. "We signaled for aid, and the Pomona came. But the towing cables were snapped and our big anchor chains went also under the strain."

The fight lasted eight days. Death seemed certain. But the captain and his 10 men determined if they were to die, it would be fighting. Day and night they toiled building jury rudders, relishing the deck load and helped in every way.

"As the storm increased," he continues, "and it looked like an entire universe had gone mad and black, we continued to pour oil on the waters on the windward side. The oil served as a buffer for the seas, and that, coupled with the persistence of the crew of the Pomona, saved us."

COMING TO U. S. TO MAKE DEFENSE OF WORLD LEAGUE

Lord Robert Cecil Will Be In Country To Deliver Series
Of Lectures

By Associated Press
London—Lord Robert Cecil, virtual author of the League of Nations covenant, says his forthcoming visit to the United States isn't a crusade to shove the league of nations down the American throat. But he's going to talk about it considerably.

"I'm not going to give Americans advice," he said, in an interview on the eve of his departure for New York. "But I will discuss the league and its accomplishments. Also the world court. And if Americans ask me what America ought to do I shall honestly tell them that it is for Americans themselves to determine."

Lord Roberts expects to see President Harding and former President Wilson. He will be the guest of friends who have urged him to visit the United States; he has never been there, though he has visited Canada.

Speeches on his list include New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and Cincinnati. Other cities may be added.

The latest Cecil project, which will be discussed by the League of Nations assembly next June, will be fully explained in his American speeches.

"Under the league covenant," he said, "nations ought to prepare plans for a reduction of armaments. But the trouble is to find a plan taking into account all the present European circumstances."

"My plan's essential principle is that you can't ask a state to reduce armaments without likewise furnishing a guaranty against aggression. The covenant promises this, but my plan makes it more definite."

"Any state wishing to reduce armaments, and fearing possible attack, would lay the plan before the league, explain the condition in which it finds itself, and explain the military or naval or aerial aid it deemed necessary if it disarmed partially. The league would then negotiate with member nations concerning the specific treaty guaranteeing such military, naval or aerial aid."

The obligation to reduce armaments could not be invoked against a state until such a guaranty pact was concluded. In brief: No guaranties without promise or armament reduction, and no armament reduction without guaranty against all aggression.

"I shall also explain the plan discussed on the continent to prevent trouble where two neighbor states become nervous about each other's intentions. The plan provides that a strip along both sides of the frontier be neutralized to the extent that railways would be built merely for commercial and not strategic purposes, and no soldiers, forts, or military preparations of either state be allowed within that strip. A zone perhaps 20 miles broad would be sufficient to prevent any sudden incursion by one country into the other's territory."

SPENDS HIS LIFE WORKING ON BONES FOR PRESERVATION

Osteologist Reveals Some Of The Secrets Of His Unique Occupation

Washington—"Bonedry" to Joseph W. Schollick, doesn't signify strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

Neither does "boner" signify a faux pas.

The first, in his vocabulary, denotes a state of perfection in no wise allied to prohibition. The second, an instrument with which one earns his daily bread.

For bones, one might say, have been meat and drink to Schollick. By them he has lived. And with them he has built up a reputation that holds him as the foremost osteologist, or bone expert, in the world.

For 52 years Schollick has lived among bones—preparing skeletons and skeletal specimens for anatomical and scientific exhibits. For 39 years he has been on the job for Uncle Sam, preparing skeletons for the national museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

MUST BE BONE-DRY
In all this time he has handled the skeletons of virtually every known bird, beast, fish and reptile, from the hair-spring-sized bones of shad and humming birds to the saw-log structure of a 70-ton whale.

"Patience, perseverance and—a strong stomach." These Schollick says are the chief requirements for an osteologist.

"It takes about two years properly to prepare the skeletons of a whale," he explains. "For animals of the deer and bear size, from six months to a year."

The big problems in preparing a bone, for indefinite preservation is to get it clean and bone dry. Not only must every bit of animal matter be removed from the exterior but all the moisture and oil in the bone tissue and in the marrow must be eliminated. Otherwise, disintegration will set in.

After months of soaking in huge vats and careful cleansing outside, holes are drilled in the ends of the larger bones and they are subjected to a bath of live steam, under low pressure. The steam, entering the holes, penetrates the interior porous structure and cooks out any remaining oils.

HE REMEMBERS THIS ONE
Few chemicals are used in preparing bones for preservation, for while they assist in quick cleansing they are injurious to the bone structure itself.

"What was your most memorable experience in your half-century of work?" I asked Schollick, as he sat at his desk, eating his lunch, the half-finished skeleton of a bird on a dissecting tray in front of him.

"Well—" he said reminiscently, his nostrils twitching a trifle at the memory—"the skeleton of a skunk that has been in the rotting vat a month can't be altogether forgotten. Still, I guess my whole experience topped 'em all."

"We'd had the headbones of a big sulphur-bottom whale in a rotting vat for about six months and wanted to get them out for scraping. They were pretty heavy so we put a plank across the vat to stand on as we hoisted them out. I was on this plank, hoisting away on a big jaw-bone, when the board slipped and in I went, Phooey!"

"I never liked collecting. I never liked to kill things. I couldn't do that. But preparing the specimens for preservation—well, that's something else. Anyway, I'm still at it after 52 years."

And that he has been diligently at it anyone who has been through the great national museum can testify.

ORATOR MAY SUCCEED CUNO

Berlin, Germany.—The best orator—the most magnetic speaker—in Germany. That is Gustav Stresemann of Berlin, who is being mentioned as most likely to succeed to the reins of government in Germany if Chancellor Cuno is forced to resign.

Stresemann's accession to the chancellorship means rather a change of personality at the head of the government than a change of policy in the government. There have been no wide differences between Cuno and the German People's party, which Stresemann has led in the Reichstag. Instead, there has been almost constant agreement, and the German People's party has been the backbone of Cuno's Reichstag majority.

Stresemann's special strength lies in his ability as an economist, his thoroughgoing knowledge of Germany's industrial problems and his force and magnetism as a speaker.

Born in Berlin May 10, 1878, he has just turned 45 years of age. He was educated in Berlin and Leipzig, specializing in political science and political economy.

He is president of the German People's party, a member of the Saxony Industrial Society and president of the German-American Economic Society. He was married in 1903 and has two sons.

GUSTAV STRESEMANN

His outstanding physical characteristic is his shining expanse of bald head.

WANT AD TIPS—

The Appeal of Odd Cents and Odd Dollars

An authenticated case exists of an advertiser who reduced his price three cents, from $2 to $1.97, and doubled his orders. "Even" prices in hundreds of newspaper advertisements and mail order catalogs are almost as rare as purple cows. And automobile manufacturers recognize the hidden principle here, too—they don't quote even hundreds. Look up the latest Ford price.

Advertisers have found that in selling goods to people interested in price (not, that is, to a clientele thinking mainly of quality), an odd price seems much smaller to the public than an even-dollar price. $4.95 is only five cents less than $5, but to the public it seems much smaller than $5. $99 seems much lower than $100. This condition applies so universally that hundreds of display-advertisers have a rule in advertising against even prices. They know that the odd-sellers or odd-cents price will sell more goods out of all proportion to the small difference.

There is an interesting psychological illusion involved. When the average person views a figure, the first digit makes the greatest impression on him, because it has the greatest significance. In the number, $4.95, the 4 has to do with hundreds, whereas the 9 has to do with tens and the 5 with ones. The digit 4, consequently, naturally makes by far the greatest impression.

In cold business, one should react to the difference between $5 and $4.95, which is only 2 cents. What happens, however, is that we react mostly to the difference in the first digits, which is a matter of $1 and of considerable moment. Odd-dollars and odd-cents prices carry also the suggestion of the price cut, which pleases many people.

Prices are not always quoted in Want Ads, but it is often desirable to quote them. And if they are not quoted in the ad, the advertiser must quote them to the inquirer. The foregoing "number magic," heeded by so many display advertisers, is valuable, too, for the Want Ad user.

FLOWING GOLD

REX BEACH

"The caller declined the invitation. 'Where the devil have you been, Buddy?' 'We were getting worried.' Buddy's face reddened, he dropped his eyes. 'I don't mind tellin' you—I like this—I kinda got a girl!'"

"No!" The speaker was surprised. "Sure have. She's—wonderful. She's right here in this hotel!"

"Buddy, you're developin' Gray exclaiming, with apparent admiration."

"I been showin' her the sights—that's what ails me this morning. She lets me take her around to places—trusts me, you understand? She thinks I'm ace."

"Splendid! I wish you'd ask her to dig up a friend."

"How'd you mean?"

"Why ask her to find another good-looking girl for me—I assume she is good looking—then we can make it a foursome. I'm a great entertainer and, while I don't drink, I haven't the slightest objection to ladies who do. Dallas, I believe, is a pretty lively place."

"She's a stranger here," Buddy broke in, stuffy. "But enthusiasm had cooled, he regarded Gray with veiled displeasure. 'An' besides, she ain't that kind of a girl.'"

"Oh, Sorry! I thought from what you said—that headache—bottles in your closet, too! My mistake, Buddy."

"I'm—Buddy gulped. 'I'm goin' to marry her.'"

"Oh, first! Gray's enthusiasm was positively electric. He seized Buddy's hand and crushed it. 'Education, indeed! No use for that now, is there?'"

"I mean I'm goin' to, if I can; if she'll let me."

"Let you? With your money? Why, she'll jump at the chance. No doubt you have already asked her—or she suspects—"

The lad shook his head. "She don't have to marry nobody. She's got money—an estate."

"She's young, eh?"

"She's older 'n I am. I reckon she's mebbe twenty-five. I never ask her."

"Naturally. How did you meet her? When? Where? I'm a terribly romantic old fool." Gray hitched his chair closer and leaned forward, his face keen with interest.

"Well, sir, it's a regular story, like in a book. I was in a restaurant with a couple fellers an' a feller she was with struck her—"

"Struck her?"

"Yet, he was her brother, so she told me. Anyhow, I bounced him. I sure spoiled him up a lot. She was cryin' an' she ast me to take her home. That's how I got to know her. I tossed her part that-a-way. She didn't know the sort of place it was her brother had took her. Poor kid! She's had a hard time, an' every man she ever knew, but me, done her dirt. Even her husband." Buddy scowled.

"After a moment Gray said, quietly. 'So she's married?'"

"She was. He's dead, or something. I was bashful about callin' around to see her, 'not havin' any thing to talk about, but school an' oil wells, but she took an interest right away, 'specially in the wells. You'd ought to hear her story of her life, Mr. Gray. It's as sad as any novel."

"You see, her folks had lots of na was too busy to be bothered, so he sent her off to a convent. Then he runs at the convent was so cruel to her that she ran away—"

"And went on the stage."

"How'd you know?"

"I didn't. But—the stage is the usual refuge for convent-bred girls who are abused. I've met several. Did she—Was the old home in Virginia?"

"Sure! Mebbe you know her?" Buddy cried.

up in court and wouldn't let go till she paid their fees."

"A providential meeting, truly. You fixed that up, of course, and got rid of the wretched bloodsuckers. I've done much the same thing, more than once. Now, the other question—how does she happen to be in Dallas? I infer from your account that she is a model of virtue, and that she accepted your aid only upon the condition that your attentions to her should be characterized by the deepest respect. So? Well then, 'how come?'"

"That was just a lucky chance. She's got some interests here: stocks an' things, belonging to the estate. She dunno, herself, how valuable they are, but me comin' right from Texas an' all, she ast me to help her out. So I got her to come. All that had kep' her back was the expense. Mind you—Buddy's tone became one of deeper admiration—she ain't blue, or anything. No sir-ee. Her life's been sad, but you'd never know it. She's full of pep; allus out for fun, an'—that's what I like about her. Gee! You gotta meet her, Mr. Gray."

"Well, rather! But meanwhile, we must telegraph your parents. In only a few days they'll be found, but also the further good news."

"I—we better not say anything about gettin' married."

"Why not? They'd like to know."

"Buddy stirred uneasily. 'Why, it's this way: I haven't ast her yet. Mebbe she won't have me. If she says yes—I'll let 'em know.'"

"Good! We'll make it, for the time being, a mere message of reassurance. Tonight you and Miss Montague shall dine with me and we'll go to a theater."

Gray was prepared to find his young friend's light o' love superficially attractive, and she was all of that. He was not prepared, however, to find her quite as good an actress as she appeared to be. In spite of the fact that she probably took less pleasure in the meeting than did he, she admirably covered her feelings.

Gray's heart sank as he studied Miss Montague. She was blond—to his suspicious eye a trifle too blond—and she wore her hair bobbed. She was petite and, both in appearance and in mannerism, she was girlish; nevertheless, she was self-reliant, and there was a certain maturity to her well-rounded figure, a suggestion of womanhood about her eyes, that told a story.

Following his first critical appraisal, Gray was vaguely conscious of something familiar about her; somewhere within him the chords of remembrance were lightly brushed, but try as he would he could not make himself believe that he had ever seen her.

The elder man played host in his best and easiest style, both at dinner and at the theater; then he passed the burden of entertainment over to Buddy, first cheerfully declaring that he would not be sidetracked and that he intended to impose his company upon the young couple whether they wanted him or not. This was precisely to young Briskow's liking, and soon they were speeding out to a road house mentioned earlier in the evening.

The resort was run on rather liberal principles; a number of flushed and noisy couples were dancing to the music of a colored orchestra. It was a hip-pocket crowd, and while there was no public drinking, the high-pitched volubility of the merry-makers was plainly of alcoholic origin.

Gray realized that he was in for an ordeal, for he had become too well known to escape notice. Consternation filled him, therefore, at thought of the effect of his presence here might have. But the music went straight to Buddy's feet; syncopation intoxicated him much as the throbbing of midnight drums and the pounding of tom-toms mesmerize a voodoo worshipper, and he whirled Miss Montague away in his arms without so much as an apology to his other guest.

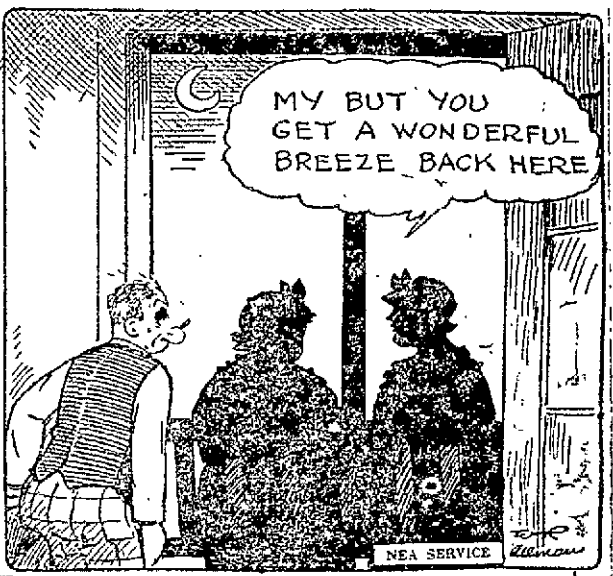

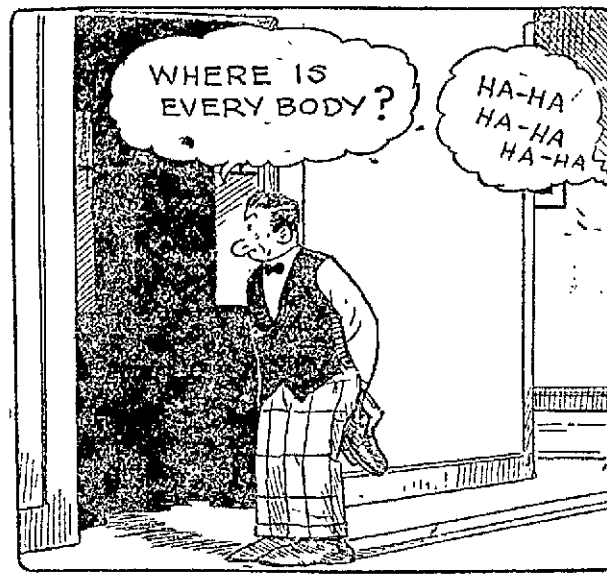

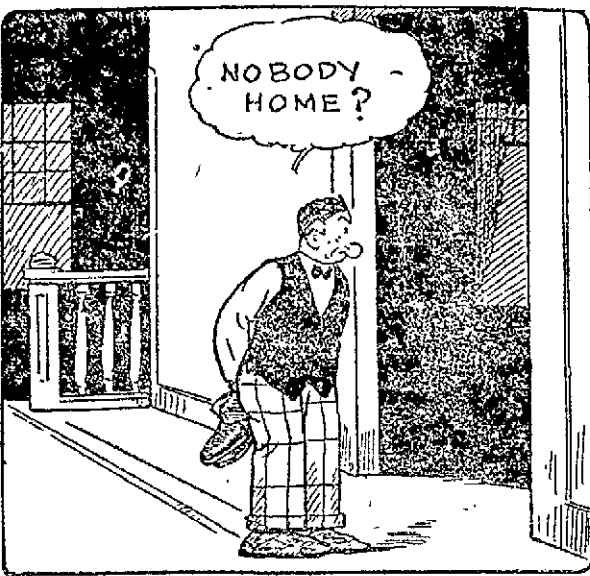

There was nothing conservative about Buddy's dancing. He embellished his steps with capricious figures, and when he led his partner back to the table where he had left Gray, like a sailor marooned upon a desert atoll, he was red faced and perspiring; his enthusiasm was boiling over.

"Dave—none," he said. "Now, if we had something wet, eh? These pants is quit purpura for a brace of form-fitting flasks, but I left 'em in the room on account of you not drinkin', Mr. Gray."

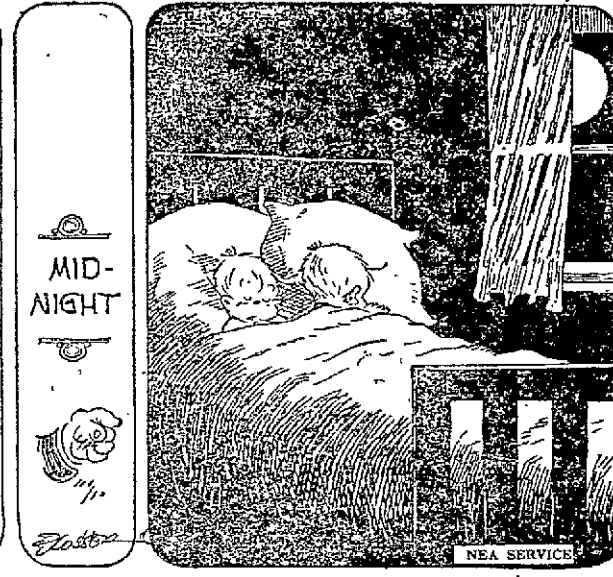

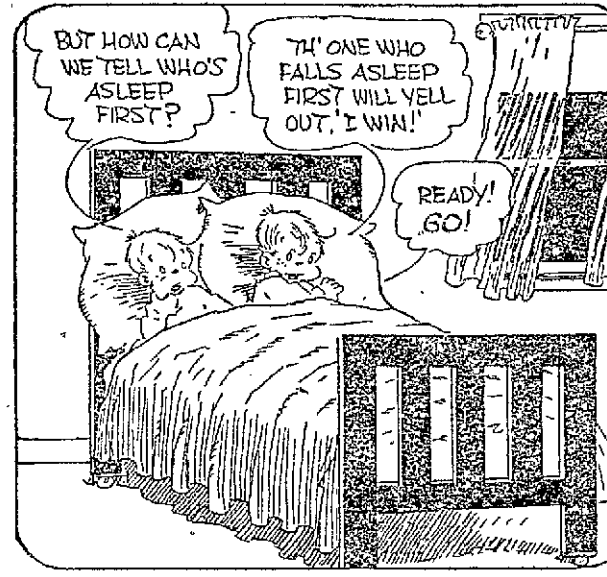

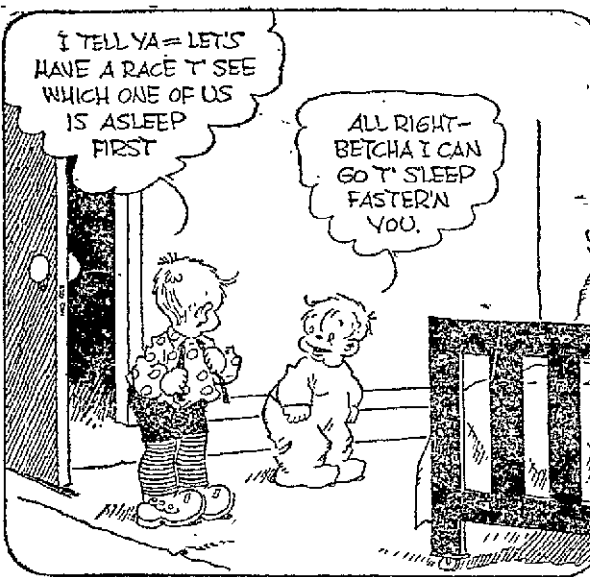

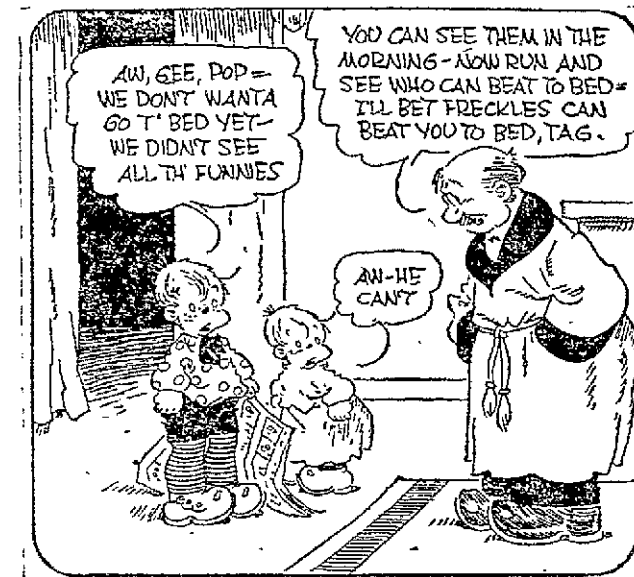

"Good thing she met me when she did, for them lawyers had it all tied

Find Practical Uses For Visiting Cards

Everyone should know the etiquette of cards but there are so many rules concerning them that it is difficult to remember what is exactly correct for all occasions. Styles change, too, in cards as well as dress, and no one wants to be old fashioned.

Although the principal use of a visiting card, at least the one for which it was originally invented—to be left as an evidence of one person's presence at the house of another—is going gradually out of favor in fashionable circles. In New York for example, the visiting card has entirely taken the place of the written note of invitation to informal parties of every description. Messages of condolence or congratulation are written on it, it is used as an endorsement in the giving of an order. It is even tacked on the outside of express boxes. The only employment of it which is not flourishing as formerly is its being left in quantities and with frequency at the doors of acquaintances.

SIZE AND ENGRAVING

The card of a lady is usually from two and three-quarters to three and one-half inches wide by two to two and three-quarters inches high, but there is no fixed rule. The card of a young girl is smaller and more nearly square in shape. A gentleman's card is long and narrow. There was a fad for cards as thin as writing paper some few years ago but today all visiting cards are engraved or white, unglazed board which may be of medium thickness or thin, as one fan cles.

The engraving most in use today is shaded block. Script is seldom seen but it is always good form.

All people who live in cities should have the address in the lower left hand corner.

NAMES AND TITLES

To be impeccably correct, initials should not be engraved on a visiting card. A gentleman's card should read Mr. Charles Dean Longworth White, but since names are sometimes awkwardly long he engraves his cards Mr. C. D. Longworth White. So, although high authorities recommended that he should drop a name or two and be Mr. Charles White, it is very likely the American man will go on cherishing initials.

And a widow no less than a married woman should always continue to use her husband's Christian name, or his name and another initial engraved on her cards. In business and legal matters a woman is necessarily addressed by her own Christian name. But no one should ever address an envelope except from a bank or lawyer's office "Mrs. Susan White." When a widow's son, who has the name of his father marries, the widow has Sr. added to her own name, or if she is the "head" of the family, she may often omit the Christian name and has her card engraved, "Mrs. White" and the son's wife calls herself, "Mrs. Charles Dean White."

The card on which a debutante's name is engraved under that of her mother, is used most frequently when no coming out entertainment has been given for the daughter. Her name on her mother's card announces whenever it is left, that the daughter is "grown" and "eligible" for invitations. In the same way a mother may leave her son's card with her own upon any of her friends—especially upon those likely to entertain for young people.

The P. P. C. card is merely a visiting card whether of a lady or gentleman on which the initials P. P. C. (pour prendre congé—to take leave) are written in ink at the lower left-hand corner.

When not intended to go to a tea or wedding reception (the invitation to which did not have R. s. v. p. on it and require an answer), one should mail cards to the hostess so as to arrive on the morning of the entertainment. For a wedding reception, cards are sent to Mr. and Mrs. —, the mother and father of the bride, and another set of cards sent to Mr. and Mrs. —, the bride and bridesmaid. —From Emily Post's Blue Book of Social Usage

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO HER MOTHER, MRS. JOSEPH HAMILTON

I expect you find me a voluminous correspondent, mother. I don't know if I am in such great trouble, and to whom should a daughter go if not to her mother at such a time?

Of course you know that both Jack and I had always agreed we would have to have a piano Jack said one of the things he fell in love with was my music. So that last day when I spent the thousand dollars, when I was passing the best music store in town I thought I would stop in and just look around.

I saw the loveliest baby grand piano you ever saw. It was only two thousand dollars. I just couldn't resist it. The man said that I needn't pay but 10 per cent down and a hundred a month until it was paid for.

I thought, however, it was much more business-like to pay for it all at once and get it over with—he gave me 5 per cent off for cash. Besides, one of the last things he told me was not to go heavily in debt.

I don't think I ever was so happy in my life as I was when I got home that night, but when I sat down to balance up my check book and found that I had spent three thousand dollars and hardly had anything left for the apartment, I was just sick.

To cap the climax I was late for dinner and Jack had been so busy that he had not had any luncheon. He was like a raging lion when I arrived.

Mother dear, I know now why you are always so particular to have dad's meals on time.

I told Jack that I had been transacting my business just as he had his.

"Huh," he grunted, "I could take four thousand dollars and buy my enough things to furnish this hotel."

I got up and left the table for I knew if I stayed I would burst into tears.

Jack was lovely when he came back. (The animal had been fed and so was good natured.)

He told me he knew he was a silly brute and I told him I was a silly little thing who had never paid much attention to time as before. I had never had to consider that some one was waiting meals for me.

After this we had a very nice eve-

SUMMER CARE FOR BABY

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of a series of articles on summer care of babies, prepared especially for Post-Crescent readers by the United States Public Health Service.

BOTTLE FEEDING

There is no such thing as cheap milk for children, particularly babies. Milk and all that concerns it is more important to the baby than everything else put together. The best milk is mother's milk, and the best substitute, when mother's milk cannot be had, is certified cow's milk. If certified milk is not available, buy pasteurized milk—or pasteurize it yourself.

If you pasteurize it yourself start by buying "bottled" milk, the chain from cow to baby is long enough at best, and milk sold in any other way than bottled involves more changes of receptacles—and every change increases the danger of contamination.

Select as many smooth round nursing bottles as you are giving feedings in 24 hours. Clean them thoroughly when you get them and repeat immediately after each feeding by rinsing in clear water, soaking in suds, borax or soap water, scrubbing with a clean brush in warm soap-suds and rinsing in boiling water.

Get the same number of collapsible nipples, which cleanse after each feeding by scrubbing inside and out in warm soapy water. Boil them once a day. Never touch the part of the nipple that goes into the baby's mouth.

Now you are ready for pasteurizing—for home pasteurization should always be done in the feeding bottle. Mix the milk as directed by the doctor's "formula," and pour the prescribed amount into each bottle. Put the bottles into a wire basket, which put into a tin bucket filled with water a little above the level at which the milk stands in the bottles. Milk is pasteurized by heating it to 150 degrees Fahrenheit and holding it there for 30 minutes, but if you find this difficult you may gain the same effect by boiling the water in the tin bucket for five minutes, setting it aside for 10 minutes and then running in cold water until the milk reaches the temperature of the running water. Then put it into the ice chest, which should not be warmer than 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

MAKE ICE CHEST

If no ice chest is convenient a simple and effective one can be made from a grocery soap box 15 inches deep. Make a cylinder of oil cloth or burlap that will fit loosely about an earthenware crock tall enough to hold a quart bottle of milk or large enough to hold six or seven feeding bottles. Put crock and cylinder in the box and pack beneath and all about them sawdust or excelsior. Tack newspapers to the cover of the box. When the milk comes, put the bottle (or the pasteurized nursing bottles) into the crock and pack them with cracked ice. Put on the crock cover and close the box tight. When feeding time comes take out a bottle, shake it gently, and warm it by placing in a pan of warm water.

All "bottle" babies particularly all taking boiled or pasteurized milk must always be given orange juice or strained tomato juice if oranges are unavailable. Begin with one tea-spoonful mixed with an equal part of cold boiled water just before the morning bath and feeding. Increase gradually to two or three teaspoonsful by the time baby is a year old.

BOIL WATER

A new born baby needs very little food for a day or two. The first feeding should be one tablespoon of milk, two or three tablespoons of water and no sugar. As a young baby cannot digest plain cow's milk it

SUMMER SALAD

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Mix one cup celery cut crosswise into thin slices with one cup cold boiled ham cut into dice and one apple cut into very small thin pieces. Make a dressing of six tablespoons oil, two tablespoons vinegar, one tea-spoon tarragon vinegar, one half teaspoon mustard, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon chopped onion and one eighth teaspoon black pepper.

Mix a little of the dressing with the celery, ham and apple. Separate into sections, free from skin and membrane, three oranges. Wash, hull, and cut into halves two cups large strawberries. Blanch and shred one-half cup almonds. Pick over and wash one quart watercress. Beat one-fourth cup cream until stiff, add to one half cup stiff mayonnaise. Season with salt and cayenne.

At serving time, mix the fruit and nuts with half the mayonnaise. Use remainder to place a little on each serving. Garnish with the watercress.

Turn into a salad bowl or onto a platter, cover with one-half cup mayonnaise and surround the salad with alternating slices of potato and beets.

It was all right again but, mother, even for a grand piano I don't want to keep quarreling the least little bit with Jack.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

The Twins' Mistake

The war in Bing-Bang Land was about over.

When the wooden soldiers rushed in with General Buttons at their head and captured all the tin soldiers, Nancy and Nick were so surprised they couldn't speak a word at first.

Then Nancy said, "We can't keep our medals now, Nick. We must give them back."

"Why?" asked General Stiff Leg.

"Well," explained Nancy, "we got them from the tin soldier general because we had made a mistake. We made Private Buttons into a general when we were mending him. He was only Private Buttons and we thought he was General Gold Braid, and we painted a silver star on his shoulder and he isn't a general at all!"

"It's this true?" asked Colonel Stiff Leg.

"Is this true?" asked Major Starch Front.

"Is it indeed true?" asked Lieutenant Chin Strap and Sergeant Stripes and Corporal Clothes Pin and Private Ram Rod all together.

Private Buttons hung his head. No, he didn't either, his neck was too stiff, but anyway he tried to "Yes, it is true," he admitted.

Advice to Brides

Keep your hands soft and lovely! You can even if you do all your own work—a new idea in household soap. Pure soap!

When a girl loses hand beauty she loses half her charm.

Ugly rough hands are unnecessary. They are without excuse.

Yet 3 housewives in 4 have them—hands that tell kitchen secrets.

Why?

Strong laundry soaps used for dishwashing, for household cleaning, are the reason.

Most contain 25% to 40% adulterant. Of 28 popular brands recently tested 27 were thus treated!

Soak your pretty hands in strong suds. And there can be but one answer.

Now a Gentle Way

As world's experts in beauty, we have developed a new idea in a household soap. It cannot injure sensitive skin—nor delicate fabrics.

We call it Green Arrow. Olive oil is one of its chief ingredients. It is like a fine toilet soap, yet cleanses more quickly—more safely—than the strongest old-time soap.

For One Week

Obtain a bar at your grocer's.

Then look at your hands in one week.

You will thank us, as thousands of women have, for telling you about it.

And it costs but a few cents a month to enjoy it, for it goes almost twice as far as poor soap—you must figure soap cost by the month, not by the bar.

Green Arrow Soap comes in two forms—Cake Soap, for general household use—Chips (or flakes) for laundry and fine fabrics. Both offer you unusual advantages.

Build Arena In Armory To Accommodate Crowd At July Fourth Fight

Expect Largest Crowd In History Of Boxing In Valley—Scrappers Working Hard To Get In Condition

The largest crowd which has ever witnessed a boxing match in the Fox river valley can be accommodated in Armory G on the afternoon of July 4 when Joe Quinn and Jimmy Nuss have their misunderstanding. A wooden arena, with every seat raised, will be constructed so that the burs who pay two spectators will see just as much action as the more prosperous gents who lay down four rubies.

Approximately 1,700 cash customers can be accommodated in the armory for the fight, it is said, and the American legion, which is sponsoring the battle, expects every wooden cushion to be taken.

Efforts are being made to provide training quarters here so that the principals can be here two or three days before the fight. Boxing commission regulations provide that windup boxers be in the city three days before the fight, providing adequate training quarters are provided, but heretofore the expense of furnishing a place to work out has been so great that this part of the fight formalities has been dispensed with.

PHILLIPS WORKING
Ed Phillips, who meets Johnny Stevens in a six-round battle is working harder to get into condition than ever before in his life. Phillips has fought here twice and each time was in only fair shape but he is meeting a regular scrapper in the Stevens boy and has been warned that if he isn't in good condition he is liable to heat the underwriter along with the fourth or fifth round. If there is one thing Phillips dislikes more than another it is to hear bird music when he is laying on his back looking into an air light so he has taken the warning to heart and is working real hard.

Another bird who is putting in ticks to hard labor is Frank Elsch, matched a second time with the murderous Jack Murray of Oshkosh. He knows something about Murray's slashing style, having mixed with him once before. Murray didn't look so good in his match with Eddie Bump of Menasha, but that was because Bump wasn't his kind of a fighter and he couldn't get in his smashes. Elsch isn't famous as a ring strategist nor as another Mike Gibbons, but he knows how to use the old socker and has shown ability to absorb a lot of punishment.

Tickets are going on sale now for the scrap. Blocks of seats will be left with ticket agents in all the county towns until a day or so before the fight when they will be returned to Appleton. A ticket office is to be opened in Pierce street on July 4.

Kinks o' the Links

Two players have played up to the green and are about to hole out. The player asks his opponent how many strokes he has taken up to this point. The opponent hurriedly counts them over and gives the player the wrong information. The player, knowing his opponent has taken one more stroke than was counted by him. Does the player just take his opponent's word for it, putting it down as poor sportsmanship, or is there a penalty attached to the score?

Can the opponent refuse to tell the number of strokes he has taken until he has holed out?

A player is entitled at any time during the play of a hole to ascertain from his opponent the number of strokes the latter has played, if the opponent gives wrong information as to the number of strokes he has played, he shall lose the hole unless he correct his mistake before the player plays another stroke.

Your approach shot has dropped dead to the pin lying within three feet of the cup, your opponent's mashie shot falls to the green, striking your ball and sending it far across the green to the edge of the fairway. Should you play your ball from where it has been forced to the edge of the green?

If your opponent's ball strikes yours, through the green or in a hazard, you may, if you choose drop your ball where it originally lay, but this must be done before either of you play another stroke.

REDS TAKE THIRD GAME OUT OF FOUR FROM ROBINS, 4-1

Smith Hits 9 Out Of 14 Times At Bat, Tying Yanks' Score With Tygers

By Associated Press
Chicago—If the Boston Braves continue Thursday to frighten the Pirates of Pittsburgh with the sort of Indian signs they have made during the current series, the Cincinnati Reds will rise into second place Thursday night of their own dead weight, and then Friday a tug and tussle for runner up in the National league will be on, for Cincinnati will open a two game series hereafter resting Thursday.

Pittsburgh maintained its hold on second place by depositing its first strong rival, St. Louis, and then it reared first by walloping the New York Giants twice out of three games, but finally along came two of the weakest clubs in the league, Philadelphia and Boston, and the Pirates lost all their lightheartedness.

The Reds came up another notch Wednesday by taking the third game out of four from Brooklyn, 4 to 1. Knocking out of the box Dazzy Vance who held them to one hit earlier in the week. The game ended Brooklyn's road trip with six victories and eight defeats, and dropped them into sixth place.

The Robins were displaced by Chicago which has been coveting near the first division for two weeks. The Cubs managed to take a game from the lately troublesome Quakers, 16 to 1, and are within one point of St. Louis which dropped another to New York, 7 to 5, giving the Giants the edge in the series.

Elmer Smith, the Yankee pitcher who has hit nine times out of fourteen times at this season, delivered in the crisis again Wednesday doubling with the bases full and enabling the Yanks to tie the score with Detroit, but the Tigers, despite a weakened infield, came back and won, 9 to 7, and as Philadelphia beat Chicago 4 to 3, in 11 innings, the American league situation revolved back to day before yesterday.

The Tigers went back into the first division as Boston beat St. Louis, 3 to 1, George Ehmske holding the Red Sox to three hits, while he won his tenth victory of the season, 3 to 1. Cleveland beat Washington 5 to 1.

Chicago's Cubs had a great day fattening their batting averages at the expense of four Philadelphia pitchers, everybody getting one or more hits. Friberg led the attack with four, including a triple, while Grantham poled two doubles and a single, Mitchell, the fifth twirler, stopped the hitting.

George Steuland, pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, has been released under option to the Wichita Falls Club of the Texas league.

The old reliable Harry Hooper of the Chicago Americans, made a wild throw in the eleventh inning in an attempt to bag Scheer at third, and the Philadelphia Athletics' second sacker scooted home with the run which gave Philadelphia the verdict.

Levi Mann, the speedy St. Louis National outfielder, cracked out three hits, including a double, in three times at bat against the Giants, but the hitting of McGraw's crew was more timely and the world's champions won out in the last inning.

"Stuffy" McInnis, former American league star, now with the Boston Nationals, had a field day at bat, bashing four hits, including a double, in five times up.

The St. Paul club took the lead in the American association scramble by knocking off the Kansas City club in both games of a double header.

Manager Ty Cobb of the Detroit Americans is running into heaps of misfortune lately. His star third baseman, Fred Heney, sprained his right ankle in trying to get away from Ward of the Yankees, Jones, who has been on the hospital list, limped into the position, and first baseman Blue, who was knocked unconscious Tuesday before the game, but played, was unable to get into action Wednesday.

Wisconsin Rapids—Robert Fredricks, known as Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, was granted a divorce from Dr. Ada Scott Fredricks in a Stevens Point, Wis., court.

National Stars Get Change Of Scene

BY BILLY EVANS

Three world series heroes, Johnny Rawlings, Jesse Barnes, and Hank Gowdy, recently passed through the aisle of the trade market.

John William Rawlings, who choked the last ounce of life out of the New York Yankees when the Giants won the 1921 series from their American League rivals, has departed from the family of John J. McGraw.

There have been others before Rawlings and the recent transfer strengthens the trade-mark in baseball. It reads:

"It isn't what you were but what you are."

The Pittsburgh Pirates now own Rawlings, having obtained him recently in a transfer with the Phillies when they parted with Pitcher Glazner and infielder Tierney and also drew Pitched Lee Meadows.

ONE PLAY WINS FAME
The Phillies drew Rawlings from the Giants via purchase and were forced to arrange a trade for him when he refused to associate himself with the National League tailenders.

The play that turned Rawlings from obscurity to fame was the last thriller in the final game in 1921. The Giants had won four and the Yankees three as they teed up in the eighth inning.

It was a battle, too, with Art Nehf opposed to Waite Hoyt. The National Leaguers scored one run in the opening inning and that was their lead, 1 to 0, when the ninth opened.

First, a couple, was hailed out of the coop to start a winning rally but was retired on a grounder to Kelly. Ward next drew a walk. Frank Baker put on a hit-and-run play and drove a grounder that was bound for right field when midgest Rawlings went fast to his left, and with a nosedive skidding along the ground, came up with the ball, and tossed to Kelly a step ahead of Baker.

MADE THRILLING FINISH
Ward was racing on his way to third base and Kelly with his back to the play heard Rawlings shout: "Third base, Fred, third base!" Without looking Kelly fired his relay to third base. It was a trifle high, but Putsch, leaping in the air, stabbed the ball and tagged Ward, who was sliding for the bag, a spectacular double play at a big moment.

JIM BARNES AND HANK GOWDY

Jesse Barnes, the pitching hero of the 1921 series, goes back to Boston.

It was Barnes, not figured good enough to start, who stopped the Yanks dead in two games in which he acted as relief pitcher and won.

Hank Gowdy, the big star of the 1914 series, in which his great work featured the four straight wins of the Boston Braves over the Athletics, goes back to the Giants. That ought to please Hank.

BARS LET DOWN ON PICKEREL SPEARING

Other New Laws Just Passed Affect Fishing In Two Southern Counties

A new fishing law affecting the Fox river valley became a part of the Wisconsin statutes Tuesday with the signature of Governor J. J. Blaine.

The bill allows the spearing of pickerel in Lake Winnebago, Lake Butte des Morts, Lake Winnebago, Lake Poygan and all tributary waters. Hitherto pickerel spearing was allowed only in the Mississippi river, Lake Pepin, Lake St. Croix and their tributaries. The bill is introduced by the senate state affairs committee.

Another state affairs committee bill prohibits the catching of all kinds of fish in Lake Como, Walworth co. between Oct. 1 and March 1 each year. This bill also was signed by the governor Tuesday.

A third bill signed by Gov. Blaine is that of Clinton C. Price which declares a closed season for hook-and-line fishing in Juneau co. This bill takes Juneau co. out of the class of counties wherein there is a perpetual open season for hook-and-line fishing except in the case of large and small-mouth bass, sturgeon and trout.

Do you know Baseball?

Questions

ONE—If a fielder touches a runner with the ball as he slides into the bag, then joggles the ball, and in the meantime the runner reaches the base, the runner out if the ball isn't dropped, or does the juggling of the ball make it necessary to again touch the runner?

TWO—If a ball first hits in foul territory after leaving the bat, and then bounds into fair ground and settles there, is it a fair or foul ball?

THREE—Runner hits for three bases. After reaching third and while standing on the bag, the coacher walks out and puts him on the back. Should this be ruled interference and the runner be declared out?

FOUR—If a base runner starts to steal and the pitcher delivers the ball, said pitcher being wild, making an easy matter for the runner to reach the next base, is it credited as a stolen base?

FIVE—If the first baseman receives a throw from the catcher in ample time to retire the batsman, and fails to do so because he misses the bag in attempting to touch it, is he credited with an error?

Answers
ONE—The runner is not out. Juggling the ball made the touch void. If the runner reached the base in the meantime he is safe.
TWO—A ball is fair or foul as to where it finally settles. A ball can hit foul and then become fair, if it settles in fair territory between first and home or third and home. It was a fair ball.
THREE—Umpire should pay no attention to act of coacher in putting the runner on the back. Chance

BUGS DEMAND BARBEAU GET OFF THIRD BASE

Fond du Lac—Jap Barbeau, manager and third baseman on the Fond du Lac Baseball club, is about as popular with some of the West Side and North Fond du Lac fans as some of President McMillan's umpires. Yesterday a duly appointed representative of the West Side routers called upon Owner Harris and voiced the protests of his friends against Barbeau's playing at third base. While the Jap has been hitting like a demon, it must be conceded that his playing the last few games has been pretty ragged.

Canton, Ohio—A world record for games in June was established when Kate Hui stepped over the half mile track in 1923, winning the 200 paces and making the first half in 1:00.3.

for play had ceased and there was no late fence.

FOUR—If a runner starts to steal prior to a battery error, he is credited with a stolen base.

FIVE—First baseman is charged with an error because of his failure to touch the bag.

PLENTY OF WORK AHEAD FOR CHAMP

Flock Of Flyweights Eager To Take Crack At Pancho Villa

BY WESTERBROOK FEGLER

New York—Pancho Villa, the first man of yellow or brown over all complexion to hold a prize ring title, will find many pallid little lads to dispute his sway and give him a harder, though never a more courageous fight for it than Jimmy Wilde offered in losing the same to the Filipino.

Frankie Genaro, American born, of New York City, is America's, of Italian parents, is a square built little scrapper who wore the starchy shield on his gym shirt while flinging gloves in the faces of Europe's best amateur flyweights at the Antwerp olympic games in 1920.

Genaro since hearkening to the jingle of commercialism, has flung many gloves against the doughnut colored, fleshless, of the Filipino, although Genaro got the American championship, Villa was chosen to fight Wilde for the world championship in any class.

There are a couple of little known flyweights boxing around Philadelphia, one of whom gave Pancho an exuberant smashing and earned a draw with him in a no decision fight there recently. New Orleans is skirting sweet music about an adolescent assassin named Al Pettinelli. Any good flyweight with strong knees and punch of like quality can give Pancho a fight, as the second rate flyweights have demonstrated in many of the Filipino's bouts.

The zory mess that Villa made of Wilde may have given the impression that Villa is a finishing batter in the ring, but his record belies it. In Wilde he simply had the good luck to catch an old champion who had nothing left but the instinct, and Genaro or Pettinelli might have been champion this day had either been lucky enough to get the match.

Villa has had eighty-nine fights with all sorts of little brawlers from the hoplite courts enters and the flashy aspirants who will now be pugnacious him with challenges. He has stopped only seventeen of them. He came to New York from the Philippines a little more than a year ago and was dropped into some of the small where his grace of motion, a beautiful show to witness and his far fetched heavy blows which always draw blood, made him a box office fighter from the beginning.

JONES AGAIN WILL HEAD YALE'S GRIDIRON TEAM

New Haven, Conn.—Yale athletic authorities last night announced the make-up of the football coaching staff for next season.

Tad Jones, head coach for the last two seasons, will again have charge of Yale's football destiny. Jack Overy, star of 1905 team and head coach of Tom Shevlin's 1906 team, will act as first assistant to Jones.

Ralph Jordan, captain of last year's varsity, will succeed "Mac" Aldrich as back field coach.

SATURDAY GAME WITH INDIANS IS INTERESTING FANS

Appleton Second In Batting Averages In League And Oshkosh Is Fourth

Fred Beebe's Indians, slang for Oshkosh, will be guests of the good people of Appleton next Saturday afternoon at Grand park where a little party, with the hosts as guests, will be staged. For a good many years, in fact, long before the well known Hector first saw the light of day, the visit of Oshkosh to Appleton was the signal for a goodly crowd of bugs of one kind and another to congregate in order to see the fun. Appleton loves Oshkosh, abjectly speaking, about as well as Jack loves Tommy, and that ain't very much.

At any rate the ancient enemies of the baseball lots will do their scheduled stuff at the aforementioned Grand park Saturday afternoon. Bill Landrop, who a few weeks ago, helped the Indians put their well known sign on the Brantigans, will try to do the same trick for the Brantigans this weekend. Landrop has put his John Henry on a contract offered him by the tall, lanky third baseman and is a regular member of his crew.

Batting averages released on Thursday show that the Papermakers are clouting the ball with considerable more effect than the Indians. Appleton, up to and including last Sunday's game, hit the apple at a .295 clip while Oshkosh was trailing along with a .270 average. Fond du Lac is at the top of the hitting heap with an average of .308 and Marinette-Menominee is trailing with .243.

By Associated Press
Madison—Conference coaches are still talking about the remarkable showing of four Wisconsin sophomores in the recent conference track and field meet at Michigan when world's records were being broken.

The youngsters, for they all were competing for the first time in the big conference meet, went into the competition like veterans, won their points for Wisconsin and carved their names in the athletic hall of fame. They were Lloyd Valley, Ashland, Bert Hilberts, Jefferson, Tom Carter, Rockford, Ill., and Gene Tuthar, Milwaukee.

Valley won the half mile in the fast time of one minute fifty five and one-fifth seconds and Hilberts took third. Tom Carter made a name for himself in the relay when he carried the preliminary in the half of 1:53 and bettering that in the final, went into the relay, his first conference competition, with the determination to win, passing three men in the last sixty yards of a remarkable race.

Gene Tuthar, who has represented Wisconsin in various conference meets this spring in the high jump and 120 high hurdles, tide for second place in the former event at Ann Harbor when he cleared the bar at 6 feet 1 inch.

With these four men sure point winners next year. Coach T. E. Jones, considers he has the nucleus for one of the best track teams in years.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

The Marinette-Menominee club received a set back when Hank Schultz broke his thumb in last Sunday's game. Bresnahan has just got his club shaped nicely when Schultz shook hands with Old Man Injury. The veteran hurler has been looking pretty good this season and won all his starts except the Green Bay fracas. It will be up to Chief LeRoy to fill Schultz's shoes for a few weeks and it is our hunch that the Indian slay artist will get away with the job.

The Chicago White Sox have the knack of pulling the unexpected. When they pulled into Philadelphia, it was figured that the Athletics would have pretty soft picking but Chicago's tribe upset the dope by knocking off the Marklets two straight. On their eastern trip, the Sox pitchers have been coming through with a bet.

FOND DU LAC SIGNS NEW FIRST SACKER

Harris' Tribe Engages Ironwood Players After Gill Is Given Gate

Fond du Lac is industriously brushing up for its weekend games with Green Bay and Oshkosh, and as part of the process, Owner Harris has signed a new firstsacker. Emil Foug, from Ironwood, Mich., who formerly played with the Wausau ball team, Harris expects great things of his new addition, who will join the Lake-end club in time for Saturday's game with Green Bay.

Further changes in the Fond du Lac lineup are being contemplated in order to permit Louis Farris, another brand of hurling and this has been mainly responsible for shaking off the day after day reversals.

The pilgrimage to Shelby is under way. Fight fans from all parts of the country are hitting the trail for the Montana, mining village, to see the championship tilt between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons. Shelby is already forced to make use of its tented city and it is probable that the late comers will have to be satisfied with "park" rooms.

Indianapolis—Chuck Wiggins light heavyweight, boxed ten rounds to a draw with Martin Burke of New Orleans.

recent acquisition, to remain on first, where he played to the entire satisfaction of his bosses Sunday. To do this, Foug will be stationed at third, while Jap Barbeau will take his post at second in place of Gill who was given the gate. Earl Howard probably will pitch for the Fond du Lac tribe against the Bays Saturday, and Harris is making an attempt to secure a southpaw for Sunday's play. Prospects are that he will get either Sullivan or Black to pitch in that contest.

She Repeats
Big Leaguer's
Triple Play

Miss Viola Wenzlaff is now in a class with Wamsutter, Cleveland second baseman, who made himself famous by accomplishing a triple play in a world series game with Brooklyn.

It was not a world series game in which Miss Wenzlaff played Wednesday evening but spectators from the Lawrence street bridge saw her repeat the sensational play in Jones park where a baseball game between girls of Appleton Women's club was in progress.

With the bases full and a hit meaning two runs, the feminine baseball prodigy who was on the second sack caught a fly, then tagged the base from which the runner had already started to third and finally touched the runner coming from first base. She thus put out three players at once.

MAKE ONE CHURCH

"Millenium" Hits Illinois Town
As Doctrinal Differences Fade

By Associated Press
Metamora, Ill.—Church folks have forgotten their doctrinal differences here.

And poor attendance at Sunday services, ill-paid pastors and irregular pulpit supply are but echoes of the past.

There used to be five Protestant churches. Now there is only one. Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Congregationalists and Christians all had small houses of worship with struggling congregations.

Today they all meet under one roof in a building large enough to house them all comfortably. One pastor, Rev. J. D. Calhoun, now attends to their combined spiritual needs.

The new church incorporates every one of the distinctive denominational architectural features the old structures contained.

Thus goes to Metamora, where Abraham Lincoln and other scintillating legal lights practiced in the days preceding the Civil War, the distinction of opening the first consolidated church in Illinois.

And Metamora believes it has solved the problem of the small-town church.

K. P. GRAND LODGE
CLOSES SESSIONS

Arthur Schumann of Milwaukee, grand chancellor, presided at the annual sessions of the grand lodge of Knights of Pythias Tuesday and Wednesday at Eau Claire. W. F. McGowan was the delegate from the local chapter and also chairman of the committee on credentials and returns.

The passing of legislative measures was the purpose of the convention.

J. Cable of West Virginia, supreme chancellor, and A. Atwood of Minneapolis, Minn., supreme prelate, were speakers at the Tuesday sessions. Tuesday evening a banquet and dancing party were held at the auditorium for the Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters, who also met in grand council at Eau Claire.

Mrs. George Ashman was the delegate from the Appleton chapter of Pythias Sisters. The convention included initiation of a class of candidates and other ritualistic work. The auditorium and Hotel Eau Claire were the places of meeting for both lodges.

HINT AT BRIBE AS SENATE VOTES ON
BAHL'S TAX BILL

Measure Is Killed By One Vote
And Then Placed On Calendar Again

I replied that I most certainly do not believe that he is a best qualified man.

He then replied that I should go down and talk this over with the governor and he felt that I could bring the appointment about and not only that but I could get anything I asked for if I would only agree to vote for the governor's tax bill. This information has leaked out more or less, and I have been thus placed in a position whereby it would appear that I had been bought.

I have voted for two tax measures at this session of the legislature and if there is no tax legislation I absolutely refuse to take the responsibility. The best tax measure that has so far appeared before this body was not killed by me."

NEED RAIN TO SAVE
BERRIES AND HAY

Fields In Country Are Becoming Parched From Protracted
Dry Spell

Farms in the immediate vicinity of Appleton are suffering intensely from the effects of the burning heat and the protracted dry weather.

Growers of strawberries are despairing of any mentionable crop. Even with a good rain, a normal crop is now out of the question, one grower remarked.

Hay not yet ready to cut is burning up fast and will not reach a good height even with generous showers. Grain that is almost ready to head out is also reported to be in danger.

Heirs of many of the largest estates in England are going to Oxford University to take a special course in agriculture.

Very Sore, Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"My face was literally covered with pimples. They were large and very red, and sometimes festered and became very sore. They itched and burned and were very disagreeable. I used several remedies without success. I had been bothered about three years when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My face began to get better in about a week, and in four weeks the pimples had disappeared. I was healed."

STORM DOES DAMAGE
BUT HELPS FARMERS

A barn belonging to Charles Krantz of Isar was unroofed during the storm Tuesday, and a large door of a barn owned by Fred Melcher was blown down.

Seymour was visited by a heavy rain Tuesday and by a still heavier one Wednesday. The ground is said to be well supplied with moisture and crops in that part of Outagamie county in need of no more rain for the present.
